Many fine exhibits at 4-h fair this week

"Arlington Heights and communities, in North Cook County will be given an opportunity to see and appraise a rural youth movement August 12-14 which compares with the town boys' Scout movement. With the cooperation of business men who advertised in the 'Buyer's Guide' and who will exhibit at the 4-H Fair we will have a healthy festival of both rural and town people," says Farm Adviser C. A. Hughes.

"City people often visit a zoo to see monkeys, elephants and snakes from all over the world. These are curiosities and have little to do with our economy in this great country.

"To show town boys and girls and their parents fine specimens of calves, poultry, pigs and sheep which unfortunately are left out of zoos, the 4-H boys and girls will exhibit theirs at the fair. You are invited to watch them judged by Colonel Wentworth of Armour and Company, who is one of the greatest judges of livestock living. This stock has complied with all health regulations prescribed by the State, and the Fair committee has previously arranged to have tents, pens and grounds thoroughly sprayed with DDT to protect the stock from flies.

"THE 4-H FAIR is not a carnival and the fair is allowing but few concessions of a carnival nature. We believe carnivals are all right for their purposes, and the Fair was pleased to arrange dates so as not to conflict with the VFW. A program in keeping with the 4-H program has been planned, and all towns people and country people are invited to attend. Because of physical difficulties of erecting tents, heat, lack of parking space, the fair will be held on vacant lots south of the South school.

"There will be a number of farm machinery displays, latest models of automobiles, and home appliances for folks to look at and examine.

"A similar fair was held in Tinley Park in South Cook preceding Arlington Heights."

Arlington Heights summer band of 65 pieces under the direction of Frederick C. Schmoey will open the 4-H Fair Friday night, August 12, at 7:30 p. m.

4-H livestock will be quartered in three tents with the vegetables and home economics in the large tent which also has the business men's displays. Numerous machinery and farm equipment concerns will have displays in special tents on the grounds.

Saturday evening the program will be continued along with the livestock parade and girls style show. The boys club baseball tournament will begin Saturday morning and end Sunday afternoon. The livestock auction will be held Saturday night.

Sunday night the entertainment program will be concluded with the Grandmother's club "Gay 90's." During the evening the 4-H King and Queen will be crowned.

The program for the band concert appears in this issue as a separate item.

'Best show yet' say vets as Talent Teens give gay program

The Des-Mount-Arl Talent Teens played 45 minutes overtime at Vaughan hospital last Friday afternoon as the hospitalized veterans demanded encore after encore at the completion of each act.

The kids, coming from Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines, really had their hearts in it and gave the vets their best. Mrs. J. M. Bosch, director of the Teens, was told by the men that this was the best show they'd seen in ages. Some even said they would like to go to Hines hospital, where the kids appeared Wednesday evening, to see the show over.

Part of the act will go on at the Arlington Heights 4-H Fair Friday and Saturday night. The older members of the troop will be giving shows at the children's hospitals in the near future. In order to play at the hospital the Teens must be at least 18 years old as no one younger is admitted because of children's diseases.

State highway ask 'intentions' of Arlington

Arlington Heights village board has the same right as a coming bride to change its mind, but the highway department of the State of Illinois will approve no more applications for use of state gas tax funds until Arlington decides exactly what the municipality does want.

The state has delivered no ultimatum, but Alderman Robinson told the village board Monday night that the state will not even talk about use of gas tax funds in any down town street widening program until the Douglas improvement is either completed or officially forgotten.

CITY ENGINEERS have prepared estimates and plans on both of the projects. The highway department gave its approval to Douglas ave. job many months ago.

The village has apparently dropped the Douglas plan and is faced with a definite decision on the downtown improvement.

The state is holding the purse strings on $41,000 of gas tax funds that have been allocated to Arlington. The annual maintenance program takes $6,000, which leaves about $35,000 for Arlington Heights to spend if the village and state can agree on its proper use.

A meeting of the Plan Commission has been called for Friday evening to consider the revised plans for Westgate, the new land development in the western part of the village, from Euclid to Kirchhoff road.

A TEMPORARY 2-year real estate office at the corner of State road and Rockwell street was approved by a five to one vote, with Karstens voting "no."

An ordinance was passed barring any such structures closer than 150 feet from any existing building that meets present regulations and outlawing renewals of such permit. The ordinance appears in this issue.

Hasty construction of private sewer job during war years is blamed for faulty drainage for houses on the west side of So. Walnut. Adjoining property owners will join with the village in correcting the situation.

Cook county a great county for farming

Many who attend the 4-H club fair at Arlington Heights this week will realize for the first time the importance of agriculture to Cook County. Arthur Franzen has secured some interesting data on the subject.

While Cook county is third in the state in the number of farms, the value of its crops are much greater than that of any other county.

Farming is big business in Cook county regardless of the encroachments of subdivisions. 62,900 acres yielded a crop last year of $4,268,600; oats, 44,000 acres, $1,741,000. Hay is third with $1,187,300.

Soy beans, winter wheat and barley follow. Live stock is valued at $8,215,600.

'They took home the bacon'

Harriet Heinrich, Bensenville, drove home the Chevrolet car Sunday night that was on display at the Arlington Heights VFW carnival.

Ruth Johnston, 532 Beverly road, Arlington Heights, has the television set, George Mohr the refrigerator.

The vets auxiliary presented Lydia Wienecke, 16 N. Broadway street, Palatine with a quilt and Mrs. Esther Toetper, box 559-G, r. 2, Des Plaines a sheet and pillow case set.

Hot sun fails to halt marchers in Arlington Heights VFW festival parade

Some of the features of last Sunday's VFW parade in Arlington Heights are pictured here. Upper left, two of the drum majors talk things over under the hot sun. Lower left, one of the color guards marches by. Upper right, the local firing squad pays homage to the flag. Lower right, the Arlington Heights Lions club float goes by. Meineke photo

Bus routes published for high school pupils

Buses covering 12 routes will transport students of Arlington Heights Township high school to and from school this year. Provisions have been made for late buses, leaving at 4:20 p. m., to cover 5 routes. A special bus will be provided during the football season and will leave school at 6 p. m.

A bus contract with Vernon community high school district was approved by the school board. The local high school will provide transportation for students from Buffalo Grove.

Seats will be provided for all students using buses for transportation to and from Arlington Heights high school. LeRoy Knoepfel stated this week. State laws require 13 inches space for each rider, and Geisen Motor Coach company will provide this room. The law also requires that all students sit while traveling. Knoepfel said all must obey the law or forego the privilege of using the bus.

Students are also asked to watch the number of the bus which picks them up, so they will get the same bus when returning home.

A detailed account of each bus route appears in this issue of the paper.

High school board approves budget, confers with architect

Arlington Heights high school board of education met this week and approved the budget and appropriation ordinance for the coming year. Both the budget and appropriation ordinance were adopted in the form in which they had been tentatively set up while on file for public inspection for the last 30 days.

The budget as approved shows an increase of $79,000 for this school year. Increased enrollment and the new addition have caused this jump. No citizens of the community were present at this public hearing.

The architect appeared before the board with his plans almost complete for the new addition. Construction is expected to begin October 1. The new addition will be ready for use by September 1950.

Public schools must hire fifteen new teachers

The public elementary schools of Arlington Heights announced the employment of 13 teachers who will be new to the staff this September. Two positions remain to be filled. Superintendent R. E. Clabaugh stated, but it is expected that they will be filled well before the opening of school, September 6.

Of the 15 new members on the staff, seven will fill new positions created by the increased number of classes and consequent reduction in the size of classes made possible by the double session program to be followed in the first four grades.

FOUR NEW people will teach social studies and language arts to two upper grade classes. Their assignment will include acting as homeroom or guidance teachers to the two classes where all their teaching will be done.

Superintendent Clabaugh explained that this plan will provide for every upper grade class to have as a homeroom teacher someone who is with the class for a major part of every day. Special teachers will thus be relieved of so-called homeroom responsibilities, accepting in return the responsibility for most extracurricular activities.

NEW UPPER grade teachers are Patricia Berg, Valerie Klokner, Donald King, Harry Soper and Eileen Platzke. Donald King received his degree from Creighton university of Omaha, Nebraska, in June 1948 and has taught history and English for the past year in the junior high school in Missouri Valley, Iowa. King is married and will bring his wife and child to Arlington Heights, if the school authorities can find an apartment or small house for them. King will teach language arts and social studies and will be the homeroom teacher for the two eighth grades in the South school.

HARRY SOPER holds a degree from Western Illinois State Teachers' college at Macomb and is doing graduate work at the University of Illinois this summer. Soper has had eight years of teaching experience, the last two years of which were in McHenry county, Illinois, as principal. (Continued on page 3)

Illinois Bell drivers, trucks 'top notch' in safety test

Quick thinking and good brakes should go hand in hand as was shown in a safety test given Monday morning to drivers of Illinois Bell Telephone service trucks and autos in Arlington Heights.

The test was made at a speed of 20 miles an hour. Average reaction, is 16 ft. 6 in., that is, a driver travels that far after an emergency presents itself before he applies the brakes. The average braking efficiency is 30 ft., that is, the car will skid that distance after the brakes are applied.

OUT OF NINE men tested, five had better than average reaction, and all trucks and autos had better than average braking efficiency.

A detonator is attached to the truck before the test. The driver is accompanied by an examiner, who, at a time unknown to the driver, will slowly pull a string attached to the detonator. This will then explode a .22 blank, forcing a capsule of yellow powder on to the pavement surface.

Parade, wild life are big features at VFW festival

The 1949 festival of Arlington Post No. 981 VFW is history but it is history that will be long remembered by those who participated therein or stood on the side lines and witnessed the parade which brought to Arlington Heights some of the best drum and bugle corps in the northwest area.

The Wild Life exhibit on Saturday was visited by nearly 1,000 persons per hour. Mr. Ball of the department of conservation and Wm. Maloney, director of education were highly pleased by the interest shown.

THE VFW is really stepping out when they attempt such a show. "It is by the support of each and every one and the all-out spirit and loyalty of Arlington Heights people and business men that made this great undertaking so successful," states Commander Greshner.

"We thank each and every one for their efforts in our behalf. It was a perfect job for which we give our thanks. We are planning a bigger and better show next year in appreciation of the interest shown by the people of the City of Good Neighbors."

Members are reminded that the post will meet Friday evening at the village hall.

Mayor charges board 'renigs' budget figures

All members of Arlington Heights village board are in agreement on the sale of the old village dump. They do not agree on the next move.

Attorney Thal is preparing an ordinance directing the sale of the old site. Finding a new site is another matter.

Mayor Goedke is unable to get approval of the purchase of a site of 40 acres for sanitary land fill use.

Trustee Hoffee's motion Monday night that the board purchase for $12,000 the 40 acres did not even get a second.

Officially, the other board members had no suggestions. None of them are willing to talk for publication, except Trustee Luehring who points to his suggestion made recently in an open letter published in the Herald.

LUEHRING favors a franchise to some scavenger who would have the exclusive right to pick up rubbish and who in turn would be required to accept rubbish from municipality.

Mayor Goedke warned the board members Monday night that complaints regarding disposal of rubbish will hereafter be referred to the individual board members.

He pointed out that the board unanimously approved the appropriation ordinance which included $15,000 for a dump site.

"OFF THE RECORDS" interviews with board members reveal that the greatest obstacle to approval of any new site is probable opposition from nearby residents.

They do not fear so much any action that these property owners might bring, but do fear that the Chicago Zoning Board would close the dumping area because of some infraction of their rules.

Aldermen are told that the village of Arlington Heights has the right to establish a village dump within the corporate limits over which the county would have no jurisdiction.

The suggestion has been made that an attempt be made to annex to the village the area in which the proposed dump is located.

"We are at a status quo," said one board member "and unless the general public takes a hand nothing will be done until fall when the street department will have to go out on a still hunt to find a disposal site for semi-annual rubbish collection.

Editor's note:—The Fence Post is open to suggestions from Arlington residents. An action could be forced by a petition circulated to establish a scavenger service under a special tax, similar to Mt. Prospect.

To have guest speaker at C of C dinner

Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors met last Thursday night at the Field house to discuss various problems which affect the community as a whole.

One of the main points dealing directly with the general membership is the organizational dinner which will be held some time in September. A guest speaker will be present to answer all questions on the activities of a C of C. Committee chairman for this organizational meeting is John Kehe. Regular members of the C of C will be informed of the date, place and time in advance and will be asked to bring a guest.

It was also decided to send Don Boudreau, secretary of the C of C, to the National Institute of Chamber of Commerce management, which will be held at Northwestern university in Evanston. The school will begin August 14 and end August 21.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE was established to provide complete training in both the philosophy and practice of all phases of Chamber of Commerce management. Commercial and trade executives operate in a rapidly changing field of endeavor. As a result it is necessary that they prepare themselves to meet new circumstances and conditions.

The National Institute affords secretaries throughout the country greater opportunities for keeping abreast of new ideas and techniques.

Present at the Board of Directors meeting were Dan Senne, president; George Poole, vice president; Norman Dewey, treasurer; and the following members of the Board of Directors: Dr. Baumann, John Kehe, Doug Brown, Harry Knack and Joe Lohr.

The local collectors will be glad to welcome taxpayers making their second installment payments up to the close of business August 27, and they urge everyone to get in before the deadline.

The township collectors received instructions last week from county treasurer, Louis E. Nelson to close all tax collections at their local offices on Saturday, August 27.

The collectors who do not have the books during the second collection and have to do all of their book work at the county building must have their entries all made and their stubs turned in by September 1.

Therefore taxpayers in the country townships want to govern themselves accordingly and see that their payments are made to their local collectors by the August 27 deadline, or go to the trouble of making their payments at the Chicago office before the penalty date, September 1.

The local collectors will be glad to welcome taxpayers making their second installment payments up to the close of business August 27, and they urge everyone to get in before the deadline.

Anklin' Around with Ainslie

Back home again to find a great clashing of gears and general confusion in the downtown district. I'm forever finding my path blocked by those cross bars, but all the motorists are good natured and fair minded so I manage to get home all fenders intact.

"Been wondering if newcomers realize that we have a very complete shop here in town. You can get all sorts of photographic equipment, have your films developed and printed, or pictures
tinted at the Community Camera Shop. They also make portraits and sell all sorts of magazines and pamphlets on picture taking. Which reminds me the pictures of the string of fish we caught didn't turn out—pop took the whole roll without removing the blind in the camera back or something, anyway
now no one will believe the fish stories I've been telling.

Dropped into Sieburg Drug Store and find they are having a real special for this week. You can purchase the new and lovely Coty cologne which comes with its own atomizer at $1.85 complete for a short time only. This makes a delightful summer gift —something different to take your vacation hostess or to send instead of a bread-and-butter letter. This store receives new shipments of Whitman candies
every two weeks too so your Sampler chocolates are bound to be fresh and delicious.

Speaking of candy, did you know you can purchase the famous and original DeMet's turtles at the Arlington Sweet Shop?

these confections as one turtle is Scouting for a brand?

THE quickest and easiest way to find dealers for nationally advertised services or trademarked products is to look in the Yellow Pages. Suppose, for example, you want a particular brand of tires. Just turn to the heading TIRE DEALERS in the Yellow Pages. You'll find dozens of well-known tire trademarks pictured there along with the names, addresses and telephone numbers of authorized dealers.

Use the Yellow Pages, too, when you want to find —

- Manufacturers or wholesalers when you're in the market for large quantities.
- Where to buy almost any product or any service, including those that are unusual or hard to find.
- The address or telephone number when you know the firm's name — or the name
when you know only the address.
- Business or professional men with common surnames, like Smith or Jones. You'll find them faster in the Classified.

Accept local girl for co-op study tour of Mexico

Mary Morrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Morrow, 622 Mayfair road, Arlington Heights, has been accepted to participate in a YMCA-YWCA sponsored co-op study tour of Mexico.

Miss Morrow graduated from Arlington Heights high school and will enter her junior year at the University of Colorado this fall where she is majoring in psychology and minoring in biology.

The purpose of this five week study tour is to promote understanding between peoples of different background, culture, and experience. It promotes understanding of people as individuals, and acquaints students with the geography, art and crafts, and social conditions in Mexico. College students also supplement their academic work with field work and direct contact in the area of world relations.

All university and college students and faculty are eligible to participate, but only about 16 students are selected.

A few highlights of the trip are special study and contact with primitive Indian villages in medieval setting, living in the home of a Mexican family while in Mexico city, visiting historic places, and talking to labor leaders, governmental agents and professors.

May reopen Scout camp Aug. 21 after polio case

by ARNOLD HATCH

Fourteen members of N. W. S. Council Executive Board met at the residence of Dave Lewis, Park Ridge, August 4, to discuss the recent closing of Camp Napowan, Wisconsin, because of the serious situation which arose when a Scout was stricken with non-paralytic polio a few days after entering camp.

Stan Huntington, Scout Executive, reported that Tom Hodgson, 17-year-old, living at Camp Hoffman, Maine township, came into camp Tuesday July 5th apparently in good health except for a cold and was assigned to Unit-1. He complained of illness Sunday morning and when he failed to come in for dinner a check up showed Tom had a fever. Dick Soderberg, pre-med student at Ohio State University, who is in charge of Health and Safety at Camp Napowan, suggested that Tom be taken to the Wild Rose hospital. He was under observation until Tuesday noon when a spinal tap showed positive so he was sent to Madison by ambulance where he was met by his parents. He is doing very well with no serious results to date and expects to return home August 8th or 9th. His tent mate Mathew Kelch was admitted to the Wild Rose hospital on Tuesday with a sore throat and discharged Wednesday July 27th and returned home with his parents to Skokie.

WM. ZIEBELL, Health and Safety Ch., said that Mrs. Willer, Des Plaines local health officer stresses that the Hodgson boy did not contact polio at Camp Napowan, since he came down with the illness only five days after entering the camp. All Scouts in Unit-1 were quarantined at camp by Wisconsin Health department and Units-2 and 3 were returned to their homes where they were ordered quarantined by Cook County Health department as an important routine check on the disease.

Stan Huntington added that camp is operated on a troop basis divided into three units which have toilet facilities located in each area and are separated from one another by distances of 200 feet or more. All activities within the camp are carried on within the troop except for eating periods in which they gather at the main lodge where they eat at tables reserved for their respective unit and there is little if any contact between the three groups. Scouts sleep two in a tent. Each group has its individual leaders and toilets are available at each camp site. Washing facilities are available in the open with source from the main water supply at the camp.

SINCE MANY requests have come in for the reopening of Camp Napowan, John Speer, Organization and Extension Ch., recommended that the camp be re-opened for a ten day period starting August 21st provided the necessary camp staff can be assured. Notices will be sent out shortly to all Scouts and Scouters.

Announce changes in banking hours

At least 47 of Chicago and Cook county's 116 banks have filed notice they will take advantage of the recently enacted state law permitting them to go on a five-day week.

Forty of the state and national banks who submitted resolutions to the County Recorder's office declared they would close on Saturdays. All of these are effective as of August 6.

Some of the banks, including Palatine National are closing all day Wednesday.

Arlington Heights National Bank will be open from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. every day except Wednesdays and Saturdays when they will close at noon.

Selective service office moves to Evanston

Drastic cuts in the number and personnel of Selective Service offices in Illinois was announced this week by Col. Paul Armstrong. This is due to the cut in the budget of the State of Illinois.

During the war Cook County Board No. 1, serving five townships, was located in Arlington Heights. Later the boards of Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Park Ridge were consolidated at Park Ridge. The new order places six areas under local board group 8 at Evanston.

WHEATON will be the Selective Service headquarters for DeKalb, DuPage, and Kane counties, with Bert F. Davis and Mrs. Gertrude M. Schmidt as clerks.

Colonel Armstrong pointed out that it is still mandatory that every person between the ages of 18 to 26 be registered and that all men becoming 18 years of age are required to register within 5 days of their 18th birthday. He further pointed out that the work of classification required under the Selective Service Act will be continued. This is in conformity with the instructions of General Hershey which require that we must have available on an instant's notice a very adequate and competent force of persons who can set the wheels in motion should an emergency arise. In addition to carrying out the functions of registration and classification, the instructions further stated that we must remain in a position to induct registrants upon 60 days notice at any time.

Creative writing encouraged on Woman's club program

Mrs. E. J. Harris, chairman of the literature and drama study group of the Arlington Heights Woman's club, and her committee, have planned a year of activities which will be of interest to all members.

Community Camera
MRS. E. J. HARRIS

The objectives of the group are to develop appreciation of classic and contemporary literature and to encourage creative writing. To arrive at this, they have two projects in mind. One is creative writing contests participated in by federated club women. These will include short stories, poetry and drama. The second project is book donations to general hospitals made through Veterans Service committee.

FOR EACH monthly meeting Mrs. Harris and her committee have chosen a hostess, chairman and subject for discussion. These subjects will include book reviews, plays, histories and a luncheon and tour of a radio or television studio.

The hostesses for the coming year are Mesdames Paul Koenig, Harold Lussow, E. J. Harris, Milton Haase and Max Hershey.

Mrs. Harris is a graduate of Northern Illinois State Teachers college of DeKalb. She did advance work in the school of speech at Northwestern university and has taught in the Arlington Heights public schools where she did work with the student dramatic clubs. She now gives monthly book reviews.

THIS IS Mrs. Harris' second year as chairman of the literature and drama study group. The group is in its fourth year of activity.

The committee for the coming year includes as its monthly chairmen Mesdames Harris, Hershey, Lussow, Koenig and J. D. Crittenden.

Double ring ceremony unites Arlington couple

One of the season's most petite brides, Miss Florence Stoeckel, was married Saturday to Erling G. Behrens at St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church, Arlington Heights.

The couple repeated their wedding vows in a double ring ceremony after Rev. L. V. Stephana. Vases of assorted gladioli decorated the altar and during the ceremony Mrs. Elmer Kirchhoff sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied on the organ by O. Kolb.

Miss Stoeckel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Stoeckel of Arlington Heights, chose a gown of white marquisette for her wedding attire. It was fashioned with low ruffled neckline and short train, and was set off with a lace trimmed fingertip veil, which was borrowed from her sister, Mrs. Leonard Rateike. An orange blossom headpiece held the veil in place. Matching gauntlets, a crystal necklace, gift from the bridegroom, and a bouquet of white roses completed her attire. Her father gave her in marriage.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Leonard Rateike. Her gown was fashioned of yellow marquisette, having a marquisette lace peplum and bodice. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses, delphiniums and pompons and wore a rhinestone necklace and earrings, a gift of the bride.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Melba Pingel, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Betty Foster, were dressed identically to the matron of honor and carried the same kind of bouquets.

Best man for the bridegroom was Dale Blau, a friend, whom he met while they were in the Pacific theatre of war. Ralph Stoeckel, brother of the bride and John Pingel, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as ushers. Mr. Behrens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Behrens of Arlington Heights.

A dinner was held preceding the wedding at the home of the bride's parents for the attendant and parents of the bride and groom. Approximately 350 guests attended the reception, which was held at the Buffalo Grove school hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Behrens are honeymooning in Wisconsin and upon their return will reside with the bride's parents until their new home at 418 S. Val Ave. is completed.

Mr. Behrens is employed at Paddock Publications and his wife works at the Firm Bureau office in Arlington Heights.

Mae Claire Kastner, Rolland Franzen wed

A small informal wedding last Saturday united Miss Mae Claire Kastner and Rolland A. Franzen in holy matrimony. The ceremony was held at St. Paul's Methodist church, Chicago, with Rev. Raymond Laur officiating.

Miss Kastner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kastner of Chicago and Mr. Franzen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Franzen of Arlington Heights.

The couple was attended by Miss Jeanette Esser and the bridegroom's brother, Kendall Franzen. A dinner was held for the bride's family at the Edgewater Beach hotel following the ceremony. A small reception for relatives was held at the bride's home later in the evening.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Franzen are honeymooning in the West and will be at home after August 20 in their newly built house at 819 S. Beverley lane, Arlington Heights.

September bride given showers

Miss Jackie Lingren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Lingren, of 17 W. Davis, Arlington Heights, was guest of honor at a bridal shower last week Thursday, which was held at the Mt. Prospect Country club.

Sixty-five guests were present to view the opening of the many lovely gifts. Hostess Joan Lingren had the club decorated in yellow and white for the occasion and a square shower cake centered the buffet luncheon table.

Miss Lingren, who will become the bride of Roger Landmeier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Landmeier of Bensenville, September 17, was given a second shower Wednesday evening. Mrs. Clarence Landmeier of Arlington Heights was hostess and 30 guests attended.

Antique and hobby show set for September 13-15

The sixth annual antique and hobby show at Arlington Heights will be held at the Methodist Meeting House September 13, 14 and 15. Mrs. Charles Deigl, general chairman, and Mrs. Francis Sweet, co-chairman, have been working with members of the Women's Society on plans for the show which annually attracts many antique lovers and hobby enthusiasts.

Many local hobbies will be displayed, among them a unique selection of "hat-pins" by Mrs. R. J. Marsh of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Charles Stadelman, 271-M, may be contacted by area residents wishing to have entries in the show. Hobbies will also come from all parts of the Chicago area.

Hobbyists and early Christmas shoppers will find this a good opportunity to purchase unique gifts from the antique dealers at their booths. The fifty-cent charge will purchase a ticket good for three days, so visitors may return as many times as they desire. Luncheons and dinners will be served each day of the show. Afternoon tea will be served each day at St. John's church, with the attractive background of the table settings display. Family heirlooms and outstanding quilts will also be shown at St. John's church.

Plan bake sale

The Ladies Aid of St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, are planning a bake sale for August 20. The sale will be held at the school and will begin at 1 p. m.

Rummage sale August 27

A rummage sale under the sponsorship of the Arlington Heights Nurse's club will be held August 27 at the Presbyterian church.

Home reception marks Schwager-Wealon nuptials

The climax of a busy week of planning and parties for the Joseph Weber's of Olive ave. was climaxed in the Saturday wedding of their niece, Dorothy Schwager, to Edward Wealon of Argo, Ill. The wedding took place at Our Lady of Grace church in Chicago at 5 p. m. August 6. The reception for 100 people followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schwager, at Schoenbeck and Hintz rds., Prospect Heights.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Katherine Stevens, was matron of honor, and Joe Weber, Jr. acted as one of the three ushers. Mrs. Stevens' wedding dress of ivory satin with inset chivalry lace bodice and long train and veil was also worn by the bride.

A traditional Hungarian wedding custom was followed by the bride couple on the stroke of midnight. The matron of honor removed the bride's veil, and then the bride danced with her father, and next the bride's mother danced with the groom.

Then, as if symbolic of the housewife position she was assuming, the bride sat in the center of the room and the matron of honor tied an apron on her.

A surprise shower had been given at the Weber home for the bride-to-be on the preceding Sunday. Tiny umbrellas were suspended from the lighting fixture over the dining room table and a seasonal fruit centerpiece was a carved watermelon basket with scalloped edges and handle decorated with ribbon bow and gladioli — the baskets containing

Edna Laubinger weds Chicago man Saturday

Miss Edna Laubinger became the bride of August N. Shelley in a ceremony at St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights, last Saturday morning. Father Richard Rosemeyer read the wedding mass as the couple stood before the altar banked with vases of white gladioli.

During the ceremony Mrs. Winifred Donlea sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother."

White marquisette was fashioned into a lovely gown for the bride. It was styled with a V ruffled neckline, with tiers of lace ruffles down the front of the full skirt, which ended in a long train. Her fingertip veil was fastened to crown decorated with love birds and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli and was given in marriage by her father. She is the daughter of the Bernhard Laubingers of Arlington Heights.

The bride's friend, Miss Ursula Steinbach of Batavia, N. Y., acted as maid of honor. She wore a pale green marquisette dress, which was fashioned similar to the bride's. Her dress was accented with a matching picture hat, dropping streamers, and a bouquet of salmon gladioli.

Best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of the Nicholas Shelleys of Chicago, was his college friend, Steve Boffa.

Members of the immediate families attended a dinner at Simson's following the ceremony. They later had wedding cake and coffee at the bride's parent's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelley are on a week's wedding trip in the North and will be at home upon their return at 912 N. Ridgeway, Chicago.

Circling the Town

by PHYLLIS KNIGHT

The fact that everybody loves a parade was amply demonstrated again Sunday afternoon when crowds of Arlington Heights folks and out of towners too flocked downtown to see the grand parade, the climax of the VFW's annual festival. Townspeople jammed the streets along the line of march and many also followed the paraders to Recreation park for the exhibition and for some fun at the carnival.

Of course, the comic favorite of the crowd — as always — was the old-time fire engine, complete with all the trimmings, even a funeral-type basket of flowers on the back. Every one loves to see the car head for the curb, then turn "just in time," and most of the audience get a kick out of the spray which is turned on unsuspecting onlookers at odd moments. This fire engine has long been a fixture in local parades but it seems that each time it appears it gets more popular. This time we were especially intrigued by the costumes the "firemen" wore—and by the old-time license plate on the truck.

The performing drum and bugle corps did a fine job. The young people of the General George Bell post and of the Rockford Eagles were resplendent in bright uniforms and appeared even snappier than the others. Another nice feature of this parade was that the bands seemed to play a good bit of the time instead of simply marching to drum beats.

There were the usual number of expert drum majors and twirlers. One band had three girl twirlers whose greatest problem was the low-hanging trees which kept them from showing their highest capabilities. One young lad, who couldn't have been more than five or six, caught the fancy of the crowd as he marched stiffly at the head of his organization.

The local police cars, fire engines, and merchants' trucks were additional members of the parade, as was a large and roaring lion on a float representing the Lions club. As the Chevrolet which was to be given away that night was driven by, many had their fingers crossed in hopes they'd be the one to get it.

Big business

Education in Arlington Heights is big business! With the announcement these past weeks of increased budgets for both the grade schools and high school, we learn just how big it is. What's more we can be proud of the job the members of the two school boards and the school officials are doing.

Arlington is growing fast, and this is shown in the increased enrollment of the schools. In creased enrollments, of course, call for increased facilities and larger teaching staffs. All these things cost money. This past spring the voters of the district authorized bond issues to pay for needed additions to both schools, now in the final plan stage.

The grade schools' increased expenditure of $61,000 will go mainly for teachers' salaries. Seven new teachers have been hired, and the salary scale as a whole has been raised to be on a par with other first class school systems and to enable Arlington Heights to attract highly qualified teachers.

In the case of the high school, next year's budget calls for an increase of $79,000, which doesn't seem like so much when one realizes that the high school enrollment is fast approaching 1000 students and, moreover, a goodly number of them come from areas of the district other than the village of Arlington Heights. Naturally, these people also help foot the tax bill. Six new teachers have been added to the staff at AHTHS, bringing the total faculty to 46, half men and half women.

Members of both boards of education point out that these budget increases do not necessarily mean a like increase in property taxes; one reason for the budget increase is the anticipated increase in enrollment. More students, naturally, presupposes more residents and more residents in turn mean more sources of property taxes.

Moreover, the worth of our schools to the community is great, not only in the excellent educational facilities they offer to the children and young people but in the cultural programs available to adults as well as the many athletic events and other programs enjoyed by the adults of the community.

Stork feathers

Gerald Gordon Reese arrived July 28 at St. Francis hospital in Evanston to join the family of Mr. and Mrs. Werner Reese of 921 N. Highland, Arlington Heights. He tipped the scales at 8 pounds 10 ounces. Gerald has a brother, Ronald, who will be five August 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hendricks of 113 Gillick, Park Ridge, are the happy parents of a daughter born July 23 at Ravenswood hospital in Chicago. The little lady has been named Karla Sue and weighed in at 5 pounds 6 ounces. Her mother is the former Lorna Hildebrandt and proud grandmother is Mrs. Bertha Hildebrandt of Arlington Heights.

People are talking about . . .

That big tent on South Highland, just south of South school. Most people knew that it was to be the sight of the 4-H Fair, but it's been a topic of conversation among the neighborhood youngsters ever since it was put up last Friday afternoon.

When this heat wave will ever end—and they wonder IF it will! Villagers have pretty well exhausted the standard means of keeping cool, and most every one would welcome any new suggestions at all.

How our town has grown, with the Methodist church's census showing the population to be more than 8,000. Incidentally, weren't the census takers pleasant young people?

The reception given last Wednesday evening in honor of the Ismay was greatly appreciated by them and they would like to thank all who took part in making them feel "right at home."

During the following two Sundays Rev. Ismay and family will be vacationing in Michigan. The oulput on August 21 and 23 will be filled by guest ministers.

FAVORITES

For FLAVOR

by GARNELL DOVE

Today we feature Mrs. E. C. Green's favorite cookies, krispy sugar cookies, and peanut cookies. You can't possibly imagine what lovely cookies these are until you try them yourself. Serve them with a tall frosty drink and you'll have a combination that can't be beat on a sweltering summer's day.

We heard about Mrs. Green from her friends in the Prospect Heights Bible church, who gave glowing accounts of her cooking. When we stopped at her home at 6 Clarendon st., for a mid-afternoon visit, we were ushered into a sparkling kitchen of sunny yellows and cool blues for a sampling of her favorite cookies.

While we sampled these krispy sugar cookies and drank orange juice, an ideal pick-up, we talked cookies. Mrs. Green said, "With these sugar cookies, remember to work fast and keep the dough cold, especially in the warm weather. They get crispier if allowed to set awhile after they're baked." She continued, "The peanut cookies can be dropped by spoon on the cookie sheet, however, I usually use a cookie press."

For the peanut cookies she uses one 8 ounce can of Planter's salted cocktail peanuts. The freshly ground peanuts give this an unusually delicious flavor.

Krispy Sugar Cookies
1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1/4 cup cream
4 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt

Cream butter until light and fluffy. Add eggs, lemon rind and cream, one at a time, blending in well. Sift dry ingredients together and stir in, part at a time. If dough is not too warm, it will handle with the amount of flour in recipe. Cookie will not be crisp if too much flour is used. Chill the dough an hour or two before using. Roll out to desired thickness on lightly floured board, cloth or canvas. Dredge with sugar and roll over lightly. Cut with floured cookie cutter. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F) until a delicate brown, 10 to 12 minutes.

Checkerboard Cookies (variation of sugar cookies)
Divide cookie dough in half. To one half add 2 squares melted chocolate; to the other a few drops peppermint extract, and 6 to 8 drops red coloring. Chill both halves. Form each half into 2 long strips, making the sides square. Brush surfaces with milk, and put 4 square strips together, alternating colors. Wrap in waxed paper until firm enough to slice crosswise. Bake like the sugar cookies.

Peanut Cookies
1 1/2 cups regular flour
3/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup butter and shortening (combined)
1 beaten egg
1/2 pound finely ground salted peanuts without the skins
Cream shortening and butter. Add the sugar and cream well. Add beaten egg, vanilla and peanuts. Do not substitute peanut butter. Combine thoroughly. Cut in the flour, half at a time. Use only cookie press forms with large openings for this. 375 F 8 to 10 minutes. Approximately 90 cookies.

Attend family reunion

While on vacation the Harold Witts attended Mrs. Witt's family's fourth annual reunion at Jean Klock Memorial Park in Benton Harbor, Michigan. Mrs. John Peterson, great-grandmother, 86, is the oldest living member of the clan, which numbers fifty-six in this country. The group elects officers each year and Harold Witt is the newly elected prexy for the coming year. Currently they are engaged in writing the history of the family.

Vacations over!

The Fred Lockwoods spent a week in the rugged Northern Wisconsin area at Crivitz last week. When the battle between them and the mosquitoes became too great they packed up and returned home, skipping some of their planned vacation. However, they didn't mind too much because they now have added time to pack for their moving date of September 2. The neighbors are sorry to see this family go, but glad that they are achieving their dream of a "house in the country." They have put their house up for sale and have rented a house in Cary for the winter and will build their new home on the Barrington countryside. "Five acres with the greater part wooded" is the way they describe their new home site.

Visiting the neighbors

Guests at the R. J. Ehrke home last week for four days were, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Drake of South Haven, Michigan. One day visitor was Mrs. R. Hutchinson of Fort Wayne, Indiana, who is keeping tabs on the progress of the family's new home at Salem and Elm.

Neighbors go visiting

Mary Ellen Robb cut short her two week vacation with her grandmother in Chicago last Friday when she became ill with a sore throat. She's fully recovered now. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding Robb, had John M. Robb of Peoria, as their week end guest last week. John is Spaulding's brother and is now vacationing in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hanson were guests at an outdoor barbecue at the new home of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Miller in Winnetka, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ritter weekended with their friends, the S. J. Sax family, in Hammond, Indiana. Monday night they helped Mrs. Ritter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Lent of Prospect Heights, celebrate their wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Meyer spent the past week end in Streator, Illinois, visiting with relatives and friends.

Celebrating

Sharon Ackertlund celebrated her eighth birthday last week with a party for eight of her neighborhood friends at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Her grandfather arranged the pleasant afternoon for the children at his club with lots of swimming, and a dinner with a special birthday cake in the dining room of the club.

Off the sick list

Friends of Mrs. Edwin Munson are glad to see she's now up and around after her stay in Wesley Memorial hospital recently.

Billy Bradford returned home from St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin last Friday and is now able to be out with his friends again.

Arranges publicity

James Colvin, publicity director for Encyclopedia Britannica, is spending four days in New York this week arranging publicity for the Britannica in conjunction with the movie now in script form, "Champaign for Caesar." Caesar is a parrot who knows everything and compares himself to world famous books. Some of the interesting details of Caesar's knowledge will be featured in Look magazine in the near future.

August bride fete

Bride-to-be Janet Johnson has been honored on two occasions recently by her friends. The first shower given by Mrs. Raymond Lowrie of Evanston, was a mother-daughter affair, with many varied and miscellaneous gifts. The second, a luncheon given by her girlhood friend, Mrs. Richard Kessel of Chicago, was a shower of kitchen gifts.

Miss Johnson, daughter of the William L. Johnsons of Watling road, will be married August 27 to William I. Murphy Jr. of Elmira, New York, in the Glenview Community church.

New Neighbors

Mr. and Mrs. William Bierdeman 638 North Belmont avenue Arlington Heights

The Bierdemans chose Arlington Heights as the ideal community in which to raise their children.

They moved to Arlington from the northwest side of Chicago last February and already "love" the town according to Mrs. Bierdeman.

Their two daughters, Carol, 10, and Lynn, 7, attend the North school and are Girl Scouts.

Gardening occupies most of Mr. Bierdeman's spare time. He is an investment counselor.

Mrs. Bierdeman recently became a member of the local Woman's club.

"Shadow," a Springer, is the family pet.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Derus 427 N. Douglas avenue Arlington Heights

Only two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Derus moved to Arlington Heights from Appleton, Wisconsin.

Mr. Derus has a newspaper syndicate in Chicago. He was formerly a reporter on various papers.

Their daughter, Mary Alice, 6, will attend St. James school this fall.

The Derus' are spending quite a bit of time trying to get their lawn in shape.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hartwig, Jr. 728 North Beverly lane Arlington Heights

The Hartwigs moved into their new home in Arlington Heights last March after living in Mount Prospect a year waiting for the completion of their home. Before this they lived in Chicago.

Many of Mr. Hartwig's relatives live in this vicinity. This might be one of the reasons they chose this area. Mrs. Hartwig said they especially liked the section of town in which they now live.

The Hartwigs have a daughter, Yvonne, who is 3.

Last Thursday Mrs. John Pritchard and Kenneth Pritchard, mother and brother of Mrs. Kenneth Messenger, were visitors from Chicago for the day. Especially happy over this visit was two year old Blair, who loves to be with his grandmother and uncle.

Hasemans paste Bensenville as Legion beats All-Stars

Haseman's smooth working softball combination chalked up another exhibition victory Sunday night in the feature attraction on the Palatine Community Park dedication program with a 7-1 win over Bensenville Motors. The Palatine Legion team played fine ball to run away with an all-star team of the local league by a 9-2 score.

Haseman's little twirler, Pat Meehan, had the Bensenville boys at his mercy, allowing them only three safe hits. His team mates got nine hits and the feature of the attack was four hits on bunts.

Wickersham was the hitting hero with three hits in four trips. Stinson beat out two bunts for safe binges. Kinsch made some sparkling fielding plays at short. Robertson looked very good at third base for Bensenville.

The Bisons' three errors in the first two innings helped Palatine gain a 5-0 lead which was the ball game.

Legion shows class in all-star victory, 9-2

The Legion gained a 5-2 lead for an all-star team with Stan Hapke being ticketed with the pitching loss. Four more tallies came in the sixth inning at the expense of Hobart Hayes on four bases on balls, a hit batsman, and two singles. The Legion hammered out 13 hits with Davidson getting four singles in four trips for a perfect night at bat. Hoffman and VanGolder each had two hits. Toppel and Krause had two hits each for the All-Stars and their only scores came on Toppel's homer in the first inning scoring Stinson ahead of him. After that, Harmon on the mound for the Legion, had the opposition handcuffed with four hits.

Haseman vs. Mt. Prospect Sunday night

Next Sunday night Palatine teams will present another exhibition double bill featured by Haseman's versus Mount Prospect. About a month ago Haseman's beat Mount Prospect 3-2 in one of the best games played here this year. This should be a great attraction.

In the preliminary Palatine Theater will meet Wauconda starting at 7:30.

MAC SAYS

Football will soon be here again. Arlington's grid coach Larsen is announcing plans for the start of practice. The Cards had a good team last year and climaxed a good season with a win over Leyden who had been beating all big league schools of the western suburbs. With only one backfield man lost Arlington would ordinarily feel very fortunate and they are but the one they lost was an all-stater in our book and a boy who cannot be replaced, Bill Robinson.

Robinson to Annapolis

Bill Robinson is off to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis after turning down a good many scholarships at other schools. For some time Robinson will be the boy with whom the good Arlington athletes will be compared. Coach Larsen does not expect to develop another Robinson this year but he has the makings of a good team. The automobile accident which hospitalized Schwartz and Griffith has made the team chances in early games a question. Larsen hoped to move Griffith from center to end and install Schwartz at center. These plans would make the line mighty tough but have to be shelved at the start of the season. Arlington plays Racine, Wisconsin, Kankakee, and Marmion in their first three games and that is really starting out in fast company.

Haseman has smooth working softball combination

We saw some good softball at the Palatine Community Park dedication last Sunday night. Ed Haseman's nine plays heads up ball and the Palatine truckers play a very smooth game. We especially liked the fielding and hitting of Wickersham at first base and the way Ed Kinsch made hard plays look easy at shortstop. Hasemans have lost only a couple of games this season. We would like to see a return game between Haseman's and Rose-Lo. We think that 11-3 score would be a lot closer to the Palatine team had another crack at Arlington's top team.

Sunday we liked the looks of Krause catching for the All-Stars in the game with the Legion. He certainly appears to be the class of the league among the receivers. Davidson's four straight hits for the Legion was an impressive performance.

Another big softball feature this Sunday night

Sunday the Palatine Community Park will be the scene of another night double bill with Hasemans meeting another top competitor in Mt. Prospect. The score was Hasemans 3, Mt. Prospect 2 in an earlier meeting. Don Foster's tail end Palatine Theater takes on Wauconda in the preliminary. Foster is not down hearted at the showing of his team in the Palatine league. "They are young," he says, and "watch us next year."

Brumm may be signed by the White Sox

Jack Brumm, former Northbrook and Arlington High pitcher, who is one of Northern Illinois State Teacher's best baseball players is dickering with the Chicago White Sox. Brumm has two years of eligibility remaining at DeKalb. The Sox would just as soon have Brumm finish college but they can have no strings attached to him if he is to retain his position on the Teachers team. And then there is no guarantee that he would be available to them at the end of two years. He might cost a lot more money in 1951 than 1949. Brumm was recently voted the best hurler in the state semi-pro tournament where he pitched three victories for Elgin.

Only one major pro cage league as BAA & NBL merge

Pro basketball has experienced a big change with the merger of the Basketball Association of America and the National Basketball League. When the BAA started three years ago the claim was made that it would become the major pro league. That has just about come about, as not one of the 12 original members of the NBL is in existence with the transfer of the Oshkosh franchise to Milwaukee. The league looks unwieldy with 18 teams scattered from Denver to Boston and the problems of schedule making is a big one. Neither league was making money under the old set up and they cannot do worse with a merger.

Riviera hands Rose-Lo second defeat, 9-7

by PHIL ROCHE

Only three games were played last week in the Arlington softball league, but one was the all-important Riviera - Rose-Lo fray. By winning a hard fought 9-7 verdict over the classy Rose-Lo club Riviera gave the Wheeling cardinals a clean shot at the title.

Playing uncleaned ball in the 1st 4-0 as Rose-Lo took advantage of their seemingly wishy-washy attitudes. Mel Laseke drove in Arnie Wolfram in the 1st inning and 3 straight hits in the top half of the 5th netted Rose-Lo 2 more tallies.

With a sudden blast Riviera finally found themselves in the last half of the 5th as Carl Huber, Ed Luchring and Bob Gosch drove hits; an error by Bill Rudolph and two walks came in handy for the Riviera cause. The sudden outburst tied the score at 4-4.

Another big inning for the Milwaukee Avenuers came in the 6th as 7 hits were driven out against the Rose-Lo chucker, Bill Becker scoring 5 runs. Rose-Lo scored 3 runs in the 7th but that was not enough. The Riviera boys went home on the victor's end of a 9-7 game.

Wheeling defeats Pape-Guenther 7-2

The Wheeling Cardinals scored 7 runs in the second inning against Pape-Guenther to win a 7-2 decision over the tough outfit last Friday. The victory kept the Cardinals undefeated for the 2nd round.

Chuck Hull allowed just three scattered hits as he set down 7 P-G players on strike outs. Jim Giesler was the losing pitcher although he pitched almost perfect ball after the 2nd inning uprising.

Deiber's loss 12-0

Deiber's Ser. Sta. never was in the game after the 4th inning as Wheeling easily came through with a 12-0 win.

Only 1 hit was registered against Hull, a scratch blow by Jim Fimbach as his mates tallied 12 times on 9 errors, 8 hits. Chuck Hull added his own cause with a 3 run homer in the 6th.

Chester Mieszala of the Ring-side Gym and Charles Hilliard, of the Nichols Gym, in a rematch topped the amateur boxing card Wednesday night, August 10 at 8:45 p. m., at the Madison Cicero Outdoor Arena, 4820 West Madison street.

The biggest crowd of the season witnessed seven boxing bouts and one wrestling match which kept them on edge during the entire Wednesday night show.

New talent was displayed in bringing out boys like John Garcia, Frank Mendoza, Paul Kent, Jesse Lane and John Generella.

These boys are some of the future "white hope" and fans will see them as time goes on, as well as the cream of other boxing talent. These boxing shows are held every Wednesday.

Mt. Prospect tops Maywood for Bison league lead

The Mt. Prospect A. C. trimmed the Maywood Legion at Bensenville last Tuesday by a 6-1 tally. This was the fourth straight win in the second half of the league schedule. The local team is the only undefeated team in the second half.

Bill Wille pitched another great game, allowing only four hits and fanning 6 batters. Wallace Busse, Bill Wille and Fred Bierman each collected two hits for the locals.

Wednesday night the team traveled to Glenview and lost, 4-1. The A. C. team outfit Glenview, 8-5, but some bad base running kept the locals from scoring more runs. Mel Krueger pitched a good game and should have won very easily.

THE TEAM traveled to Bensenville Sunday and beat the Bensenville VFW in a loosely played game by a 14-9 score. Mel Krueger and Bill Wille pitched for the locals. Bill Wille also led the batters with 3 hits, a single, double and triple. Mow Anderson connected for two home runs.

COMING GAMES

Sunday, August 14, Hasemans at Palatine, 8:30 p. m.

Tuesday, August 16, Ontarioville at Bensenville at 9 p. m.

In a rained out game Ontarioville defeated Bensenville VFW last week, thereby going into a first place tie with Mt. Prospect for the first half of the schedule. The play off date has not been set.

This year's team has Northeast title to defend

First call for football at Arlington Heights high school was issued this week by Curtis Larsen, grid mentor, when he set a week from Saturday, August 20, as the date for all varsity and junior-varsity men of last year to appear for physicals.

Football practice, as set by law, will start August 25, and Larsen is determined to have all preliminaries out of the way by that time. Physicals and parents' consents have always been a last minute worry of school authorities in past years.

This season Larsen has called all boys of last year's top two teams to appear at the high school between 8:30 and 12:00 Saturday, August 20, for their physicals. Uniforms will also be given out that day.

ABOUT SIXTY boys are expected to show, with all members of both teams welcome, big and small.

Last year Coach Larsen's boys compiled a six-two record, losing only to Marmion and Kankakee. The entire slate of eight games were free lance, though victories over Niles and Leyden gave the Cardinals the abbreviated Northeast conference title.

Fans will remember that final game of the year when the locals pushed over one score and the point after to outswim the Franklin Park school, 7-0 for the championship.

LAST SEASON'S scores:

Arlington 49, Barrington 9.
Arlington 0, Marmion 18.
Arlington 20, Kankakee 25.
Arlington 19, Crystal Lake 6.
Arlington 19, Belvidere 13.

Buddy Ebsen at Chevy Chase next week

Buddy Ebsen, dancer and comedian of stage and screen, will receive the curtain calls and applause at Chevy Chase August 16 through 21. Following close on the heels of this week's popular comedy "The Vinegar Tree" starring Mady Christians, Mr. Ebsen will be seen in Boothie Tarkington's "The Man From Home," a comedy of manners on life here and abroad in the early nineteen hundreds.

"The Man From Home" is Buddy Ebsen's first local appearance since "Goodnight Ladies." He plays a good-hearted, homespun Hoosier who goes off to Italy after his American ward and finds his wholesome brand of naivete in antithesis to the comic sophistication of continental society. Thus the stage is set to point up the contrasts between the relative manners of America and Europe in a fashion reminiscent of a Henry James novel.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

"Trouble, trouble, boil and bubble," chanted the witches in McBeth. Yet all of the trouble that the witches of misfortune, fear and hardship could stir up meant only an incentive to growth and development ending in success and happiness for one boy I know.

David was a frightened, homesick lad when his troopship pulled out for the Pacific, a fact which he kept strictly to himself. He won his way into the hearts of all his buddies and officers on the battlefronts that led the way to Japan. Through insect infested jungles and swamps, across scorching desert sands, he carried a faith that was unshakable. Determination, and the discovery of a Power for self discipline and courage showed him how. No way was too hard, no trouble too great to still the song it brought to his heart, or quiet his cheery laughter or his good comradeship. In a simple, direct way, without preachiness or pride, he spoke of the faith that was within him, and how much it meant in his life. No doubt many a soldier lad who had never thought of Christ, was inspired by his example and the quiet, confident manner in which he talked of the courage and power he had received as a direct result of his Christian belief.

David is not the only one I know whom trouble made stronger. Trouble has a way of building character in every one who is willing to face the realities of his own hard luck with a sons in his heart. But the fact which David proved was that faith and confidence in a power greater than one's self lifts the life of an individual out of the weakness and sense of futility which brings despair to so many of us in moments of trouble.

Devotion to an ideal or struggling toward a definite goal if life which is so absorbing that it demands all of one's efforts builds strong bodies and minds. Likewise, struggle against misfortune, sorrow, and all of the temptations and emotions, such as hatred or jealousy. Most sorrow or trouble is brought about by a feeling of frustration. Something one wants badly is denied him, or he lacks something in his personality that he envies in another. The healthy, well adjusted person reacts much as David did through the hell that raged in the Pacific—they keep their chins up, have faith, keep their heads cool, and go ahead. Trouble, to such people, is the high road to greater physical, spiritual and mental development.

How to get help from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis

1. At the first sign of illness, call your own doctor. If he suspects polio he will report the case to the local Health Department and arrange for hospitalization or home care, as indicated. The National Foundation does not select physicians or hospitals. This is a family matter. If you have no family physician, call your City or County Medical Society, your Board of Health or the nearest hospital.

2. If your doctor says it is polio and requires hospitalization, the local Chapter of the National Foundation will help arrange for transportation to a treatment center. As soon as the patient goes to the hospital—or if your doctor advises the patient can be treated at home—get in touch with your Chapter of the National Foundation to arrange for any needed assistance.

a.) Most Chapters are listed in the telephone book under N for National Foundation, I for Infantile Paralysis and the letter starting the name of the county you live in, i. e., Washington County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. If you can't find it—check with your doctor, hospital or Health Department.

b.) Your Chapter will get in touch with you as soon as it learns of the case through your physician, the hospital or the Health Department. However, late reporting or a heavy hospital load may delay this Chapter contact. If you do not hear promptly, telephone or visit your Chapter representative. You can ease your own worries sooner by making the approach yourself.

3. The Chapter representative will notify the hospital that it is arranging with you for full or partial payment of expenses for medical care. Adults are as eligible for help as are children. Discuss with your Chapter how much of the full bill the Chapter will pay.

a.) March of Dimes funds are used to help the medically indigent—but this is not the same as "indigent." It includes families of moderate income, who cannot meet the high costs of modern care of this expensive disease. The help is a gift—not a loan. While families that can pay are expected to do so, no family is expected to impoverish itself to meet medical expenses for polio.

b.) Even if you can assume full costs for initial hospitalization, it is a good idea to see your Chapter. If yours should be a patient who is severely affected—and this cannot be determined in the first few days—you may need help later on. Bills incurred in the weeks before your Chapter assumes financial responsibility cannot be paid months afterward, but the Chapter will step in at whatever time you really need help. Have a frank, friendly talk with your Chapter representative at the beginning.

4. Chapters pay for hospitalization, professional services including nursing and physical therapy, transportation to and from hospitals, convalescent centers and clinics, treatment after hospitalization and appliances such as wheelchairs, braces, etc., as needed. There are no hard and fast rules. Each case is decided upon individual medical and financial needs. Assistance is given regardless of age, race, creed or color. More than 110,000 polio patients were directly assisted in full or in part up to the end of 1948.

5. In addition, your Chapter can put you in touch with proper sources for nursing and physical therapy at home, can refer you to rehabilitation and vocational training agencies, will provide literature designed to foster better understanding of infantile paralysis—so you will know what to expect and how to help your polio patient back to a useful life.

These services are made possible by the March of Dimes each January.

'Life time of service' is ended for Elnora Foster

Mrs. Elnora Arps Foster, of Palatine, died Sunday evening at the Bethany hospital in Chicago, where she had been taken earlier that day.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at St.
Paul's Evangelical church. In the absence of Rev. Gummi, Rev.
L. R. Poeschel, of Lake Zurich officiated.

Interment was in Randall where the final rites of the Women's Relief Corps were accorded the woman who had followed the footsteps of her mother, Mrs.
G. H. Arps, and gave a lifetime of service to that organization,
extending from the local corps,
to the county, state and nation.

Deceased leaves her husband,
Elvis, a son, Elvis Jr., a brother Plinn, and a sister, Mrs. Alma Olson, both of Chicago. One daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster died in infancy. There are also two grandchildren.

Few women have given as much service to others as had Mrs. Foster. As a young girl, she entered whole heartedly in community affairs of her home town. She was known throughout Palatine by the older residents as "Elnora" and as "El-nora" she served as president of the Palatine PTA, and other groups. With "Elnora" at the helm any project was destined to be a success.

She was a member of St.
Paul's church and of its women's groups.

Mrs. Foster was an active campaigner for anything in which she was interested. Thus she entered the political arena for the Republican party and was one of the county committee women for many years.

Her principal interest was in the Woman's Relief Corps. She served as president of Sutherland Corps No. 89 as well as secretary and in many of the other offices of that organization.
She gave similar service to the WRC county organization and was its musician at the time of her death.

MRS. FOSTER was president of the state department in 1936, was its treasurer two years, and has held various offices and served on many committees since that time. Her work extended into the national corps.

Although she had been in failing health for some time, she had been taking an active part in the polio and cancer campaign
being featured through the WRC.
While there were a great many floral tributes surrounding her casket at the Thorp funeral home, many of her friends followed her oft repeated requests that contributions to either polio or cancer funds, take the place of flowers.

Mrs. Foster was a news reporter for Paddock Publications over forty years. Scarcely a week that she did not forward her news items to the publication office, regardless of what particular convention she was attending that week.

Deceased was born in Ridgefield, Ill. December 23, 1884. She came to Palatine when ten years old, attended Palatine high school and after graduation entered the state normal school at Normal, Ill. and taught school for several years.

She married Elvis Foster February 24, 1916.

William R. Landwehr

Funeral services for William R. Landwehr, late of Northbrook, were held Wednesday from St.
Peter Evangelical Neighborhood
church, with Rev. A. H. Bizer officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery. Oehler's chapel, Des Plaines, was in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Landwehr, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herman Land-wehr, was born March 11, 1872 in Northfield township. He attended confirmation instructions at St. Peter's church in Chicago.
June 29, 1892 he was married to Sophia Eberlein. After their marriage this couple made their home in Winnetka, later moving to Northbrook.

During the years 1912 to 1930
Mr. Landwehr was in the sundry merchandise business. He served his community in various capacities during his lifetime. At one time he was township collector;
for 30 years he was township assessor; he served on the Northbrook village board and was an honorary member of the fire department and the Northbrook
Civic association.

He was connected with St.
Peter Evangelical Neighborhood
church and served as a member of its board of directors for three decades. After he retired from business he remained active in civic and church affairs. He had been in ill health for the past two years. He died August 7.
Survivors include his wife,
Sophia; daughter, Mrs. Irma Griesse; son-in-law, Edward Griesse; and brother, Edward.

Chicago is still the counterfeit capital

Chicago is still the counterfeiting capital of the nation, for the second successive year, according to annual figures released by the U. S. Secret Service for the fiscal year ending June 30. Seized in the three-state area, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana during the year was $214,229 of fake money, the largest of any area, as was the preceding year's $447,000 seized here. Prior to that New York was the chief center.

Nationally, the agents "take" was $949,742, according to U. E. Baughman, chief of the service. Of this, storekeepers and cashiers lost $338,062, but the rest was found in the possession of passers, who lost what they had paid for the money as well as their liberty, in most cases, making it a highly unprofitable occupation, Baughman said.

Of the Chicago seizure, $61,874 was in the possession of victims, according to Harry Anheier, local head. Since the amount was usually $10 or $20, this represents about 5,000 local merchants who were victimized in the last year. Very few were banks.

States attorney praises trailer camp operators

A word of praise was handed out this week to Cook County trailer camp operators by the States Attorney's office.

Assistant State's Attorney Martin R. Handelman reported "100 per cent cooperation from trailer camps and county towns and villages" in complying with the provisions of the recently enacted trailer camp ordinance.

"Nearly all of 100 trailer camps in the county, with but one or two exceptions, have either applied for operating permits or will do so in a few days," Handelman said. He added that the county law is not applicable when local communities have health and safety provisions that meet the standards set forth by the county.

Elliott's Cabins is the only trailer camp within the corporate limits of Arlington Heights. It is operated under the provisions of the county ordinance until such time as the village passes a suitable ordinance.

The county trailer camp law governs health and safety conditions, and requires a yearly operating permit to be obtained, based on a per trailer fee.

In the future

Not to be outdone by the chicken breeders, a Britisher has come up with a streamlined chicken wire—strong as steel, but completely rustless and only one-third as heavy as ordinary chicken wire. A device for preventing a short circuit from occurring in the wiring system of an auto. Controlled by a switch installed in the dashboard, this safety feature protects against fires caused by short circuits, prevents children from starting a car while parked, and eliminates embarrassment when horn button gets shorted in public places. A rust-proofing agent which makes it possible to rust-proof tools and parts without greasing or airtight sealing. Should be mighty handy when it's time to put the garden tools away each fall. A new kind of poison for mice with a name that ought to click. It's "Dynamic." Use of television in movie theatres, in two ways. One would be to present regular telecasts of outstanding public events. The other would be to show a film simultaneously

Brewery of Periolat family spurred early development of Wheeling

Napoleon Periolat built and operated the Periolat brewery in Wheeling in 1850, and the family operated it until 1905. When Napoleon Periolat died, his sons Henry and Robert, operated the company until 1905 when they sold out to people from Chicago.

The brewery was then operated until about 1910 when the building was demolished. This brewery is said to have contributed much to the early growth of Wheeling.

In 1889 George Periolat, son of Robert Periolat, left Wheeling to seek work in Chicago. He found employment with Crane and company and was associated with them until his retirement. The company, he said, began as a valve and fittings company. They later went into plumbing and now employ over 15,000 people.

In 1936 George Periolat retired and moved back to Wheeling. He and his wife are living in the same home occupied by her parents. The old portion of the home is over one hundred years old. Still visible are the original timbers used in the basement of the home.

Mrs. George Periolat, Emma Schneider before her marriage, wanted to live in her family home; so the house on Milwaukee avenue has been remodeled and looks like new today. The new addition to the family home includes a living room and two bedrooms. Some of the furniture owned by the Periolat's parents and grandparents can still be found in the house.

Mrs. Periolat's father, Dr. John G. Schneider, a veterinary surgeon, came to this country in 1853 from the province of the Rhine, Prussia. Schneider was also an insurance agent, assessor for Wheeling for 20 years and school director for 15 years.

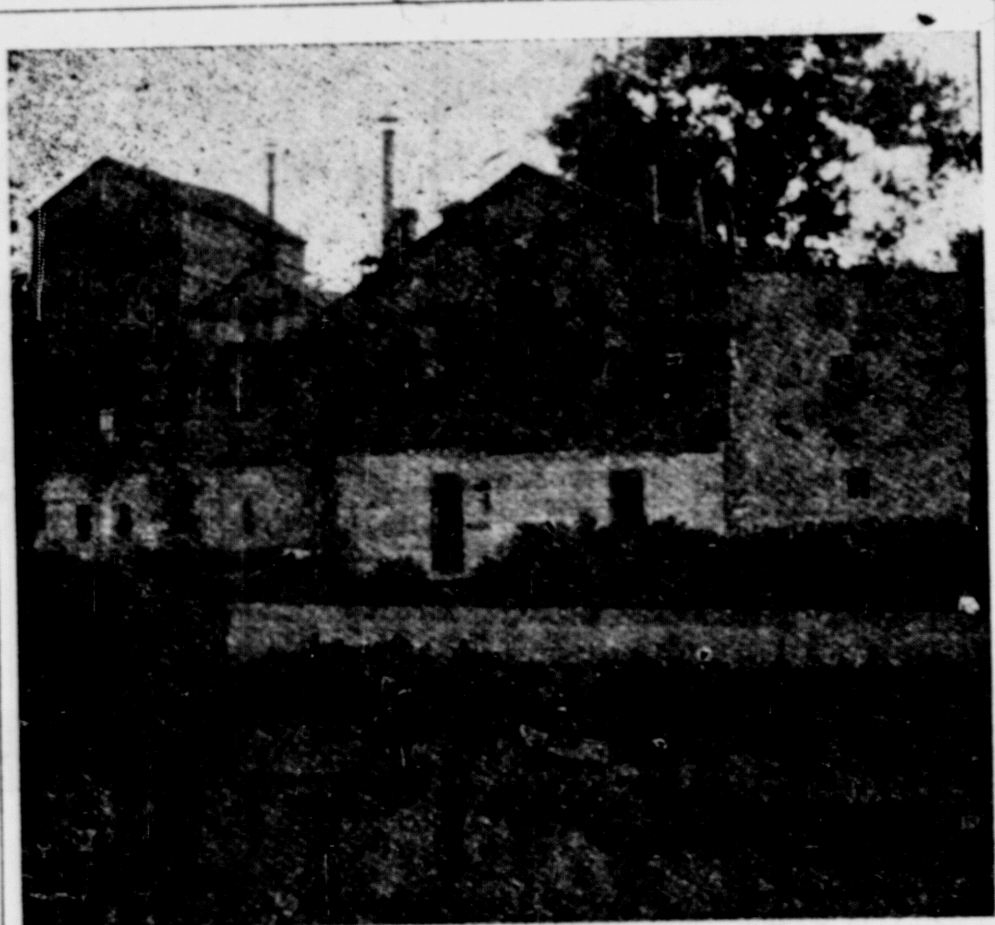

Lucile Schneider, Mrs. Periolat's niece, has been a reporter for Paddock Publications for over 25 years. An article written by her appears with this account.

The Periolat family influence extended to other business enterprises. Inter-marriage and business partnerships included the Schneiders, Vogts, Sigwalts, Bollenbachs and others.

Records are not available, but it is presumed that the present Wheeling store had its beginning about one hundred years ago when it was known as the Schaffer store.

Charles Vogt and his father, William Vogt, who was George Periolat's grandfather, bought J. M. Schaffer's general store. Charles was employed as a salesman for J. M. Schaffer for four years. In four years Charles purchased his father's interest and from that time until 1881 he carried on the business alone. In 1881 he formed a partnership with Emil Sigwalt, and the business was conducted under the name of Vogt and Sigwalt.

Charles Vogt married Josephine Periolat in 1857. He held the job of town clerk, school director, postmaster and Deputy of Wheeling.

Napoleon Periolat built and operated the Periolat brewery in Wheeling in 1850, and the family operated it until 1905. The building, since wrecked, is shown above in 1910, and was located along the banks of the Des Plaines river on the east side of Milwaukee avenue, south of Dundee road.

Lucile Schneider of pioneer family, reporter 25 years

"Coming from a family which located in Wheeling over ninety years ago, would quite naturally give me a deeply rooted interest in the affairs of Wheeling and its environment," says Lucile Schneider, Wheeling correspondent. Accordingly, the Cook County Herald has been among the newspaper files of our family farther back than I can remember.

"My grandfather, Dr. John G. Schneider, veterinary surgeon, traveled the trails of the town, ship and county widely, often when horse-back was the only possible mode of transportation, as he served the early farm settlers of this area for over fifty years. Roselle, Itasca, Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Palatine, Vogt later sold out to Sigwalt who formed a partnership with Bollenbach. Sigwalt sold out to Bollenbach, and Edward J. Welflin bought the store from Bollenbach.

Ed Welflin ran this general store for 35 years. His son, Don, took over the business three years ago.

About 1918 a new store was built on the original site, and the old store was moved to another location. The old store was a one story frame building with a cottage attached. This cottage is still next to the existing store.

Arlington Heights, Gross Point, as well as southern Lake County were all in his field, and many names from these communities held a familiar ring in our family. Consequently, grandfather must have been an early subscriber to the Cook County Herald.

"As a member of the family which has lived in Wheeling continuously, it was a sense of loyalty to the home community and the desire to see Wheeling publicized along with its sister villages, that first prompted me to submit items to the Cook County Herald over 25 years ago. My file of local clippings indicate a regular correspondence of at least 20 years, preceded by a 10 year period of less regular contributions. "Among the satisfactions one receives as a correspondent, is the appreciation of persons who cherish the opportunity to file clippings referring to events sacred in the memoirs of their families. As pleasant surprises to the correspondent are the times when items submitted are rated as feature stories of general interest.

"Of greatest satisfaction to me as a correspondent was the opportunity to give the servicemen and women of Wheeling their just place in 'With Uncle Sam' and to help them keep in touch with more of the folks back home."

TALES OF THE STREET

EARLY CORN

The prospects of an early corn crop this year are the best in years.

The sweet corn canning plants in the northern part of the state are already in operation, when usually they start about September 1.

The big fields of field corn are growing like the wind and it looks like a whale of a crop is in the making, although there is a difference of opinion about that among farmers, who seem to disagree about things just like race handicappers.

We met E. J. Plote one day and he had looked over some of the corn fields and was predicting a big crop. Then, half an hour later, we met Louis Freise and he had a different idea.

Louie said that the corn was growing so fast that he was afraid that we were going to be surprised, that it was all going into leaves and stalk and that the ears wouldn't be so much.

Louie also said that a high wind would raise havoc with the corn fields because the anchor roots didn't even reach the ground because of the rapid growth of the stalks.

So it seems that farming experts differ just like all the other experts.

GARDEN CROPS

Gardens are doing splendidly this summer. George Schroeder says he hasn't had such a good garden since he moved to town from the farm years ago, and Joe Burnham out in Palatine Park says his garden was never so fine.

Joe was sort of worrying about the cold weather of ten days ago, and when we told him that July frost of a few years ago that froze some corn fields he really got scared.

But we aren't looking for too early a frost in spite of the katydid, and those nice gardens are going to produce a lot of good things to eat before the freeze up.

Truck gardeners have been getting good prices for their products so far although "Cokes" are so plentiful now that they are a drug on the market.

WHAT NEXT

We heard a fellow blowing off the other day and we just can't figure out a name for his sort.

He thought that all racing was crooked, and then he launched into the business and industrial field and was predicting that what we should have in this country would be a one hour day and a five day week.

That would mean that a person would only work five hours a week. He claimed that that was the only way to keep down production.

Just what sort of a crack-pot that guy was we haven't been able to figure out, but there are all sorts of them running around loose it seems.

NO INTEREST

It seems that the only time that people take any interest in what their governmental bodies are doing is when they get a tax bill. What goes into that tax bill and what it's for doesn't seem to interest them. They are interested only in the amount of the bill.

At a recent public hearing on the highway commissioner's budget, no one showed up. At the public hearing on the big budget of the consolidated school district, one citizen other than a reporter put in an appearance.

It shows a decided lack of interest, but just listen to the screaming when those 1949 tax bills come out next spring.

THE WISEST GUY

There was a jolly crowd of men and women out at Arlington Park for the running of the Classic and the last day of the meeting.

In a big field south of the track a big combine was busy harvesting the wheat. One of the men in the jolly party looked off across the fields and came up with the remark, "The wisest guy out here is that fellow harvesting wheat. He's on the government subsidy, and the government sells his wheat to Europe at less than cost. He doesn't have anything to worry about and he isn't over here losing his money."

A fellow next to us heard the comment and remarked to us, "I'll bet he isn't a Democrat."

SAFETY

The Palatine Safety Council has made some recommendations to the Village Board about reducing the speed limit in certain areas to 20 miles per hour.

We have heard several comments about the recommendations to the effect that it might be a good idea from a safety standpoint if the Village would enforce the present speed limits rather than reduce them some more and let the violations continue.

And then again, what's the use of a lot more ordinances on the books when a host of those that are there are never enforced. What are they? Oh what's the use? Newspaper costs money and the list would take up too much space.

DELAYED HARVEST

The frequent rains caused a lot of delay in the grain harvest, and some of the fields that didn't see a combine or a reaper in time got to looking pretty tough with grain down and a host of weeds growing up through it.

L. F. Landwer was telling of his experience of being driven out of his field by a heavy shower one day while a neighbor half a mile away kept right on harvesting in bright sunshine.

Those scattered showers did a lot of good in keeping things going, however, until the general rains came.

MOSQUITOES

The mosquitoes it seems are still with us. At least that's our experience when we try to do a little work in the garden or sit out on the veranda in the evening.

And our experience seems to be borne out by the rest of the town.

Some of the folks out in Palatine Park tell us that they can't even sit out doors in the middle of the day without being devoured by mosquitoes. And at those night ball games, just ask Henry Carlson, cashier of the National Bank, how the mosquitoes are.

Henry goes to the games all right, but after about three innings you can see Henry and his wife heading across the park for home and safety. So gone is the dream of a mosquito-less summer following our spraying or fogging experience. The pests are still with us.

HORSE RELIGION

Someone is always coming up with a new phrase. We heard one the other day—"horse religion."

A fellow was asking a friend to make a bet with him on a couple of old platers running at Arlington Park.

Said the better, "I know it's just like throwing money down the drain to bet on those pigs but they've treated me well in the past and my 'horse religion' tells me to do this."

His first hunch was right. One of the "pigs" ran a disgraceful race, and the other one broke a leg while with the leaders on the far turn.

FAMILY OUTINGS

Palatine's new park with its soft ball games under the lights has become a real place for family outings of an evening. Mother and dad like to see the games and they bring along the youngsters too.

Maybe the kids don't appreciate the ball games but they go for the pop and popcorn that can be purchased at the park refreshment stand and you can see whole families enjoying the games, munching popcorn and drinking pop.

Walter Helms, of the old timers section of the stands, makes the suggestion to park superintendent Dick Welty that he add a box of cigars to the stock of the refreshment stand, for the old timers smoke cigars and those double headers are long. The mosquitoes are thick and sometimes the boys don't bring along enough smoking equipment to last out the evening. So there you are, Dick, more sales for the stand and more contented old timers. Just put in those cigars.

BUSY EX-MAYOR

What does an ex-mayor do after he gets through the mayor's job? Well let's take Bill DePue for instance, who has just gotten into the ex class after serving as Palatine's mayor for eight years during which Palatine saw the greatest development in its history.

Sunday, Bill went to church in the morning, something that he wasn't always able to do while he was listening to the gripes and walls that come on a mayor's job when he is on the job. Then in the afternoon, he had a busy time at his office, talking to prospects, selling a home and showing property.

Along in the afternoon a couple wandered into Bill's office and wanted to know when they could get married; so Bill, the genial accommodating fellow that he always is, got the Peace Jack Boughner, one of Palatine's new judges and got him down to the office.

Then, as the young couple didn't have any best man, bridesmaid or witnesses, Bill got busy some more and rounded up his son and daughter to act in those capacities.

Then he turned his private office over to the wedding party for the ceremony and everyone was happy.

When the busy day was over Bill gave a contented sigh and remarked, "And not a kick or a gripe all day. No one hollering about their roads or the neighbor's dog, a broken water pipe, or a clogged sewer. Oh! What a grand and glorious feeling to be just plain Bill DePue, private citizen once more."

Life in the Country

The rat population of the United States is thought to be about the same as the human population, with three-fourths of the rat living on farms. The most efficient means of causing wholesale destruction of rats is through the use of poisons or rodenticides.

'GREATER PALATINE' EDITOR SENDS GREETINGS

Boulder is a city of about 20,000 population with an additional 10,000 students at the University of Colorado, here. It is situated at the bottom of Flagstaff mountain and receives its water supply from the Arapahoe glacier, some 35 miles distant. The trains either run into Boulder and back out, or back in and go out frontwards.

Late Sunday afternoon we enjoyed a motor trip up Flagstaff mountain, chauffeured by my husband's nephew, Don Cieber. Flagstaff mountain belongs to the city of Boulder, and is maintained by the city as its park. The view of the city and its surrounding countryside is beautiful, and as we stood watching, the lights of Boulder twinkled on, as did the lights of Denver, 35 miles away. On Flagstaff mountain there is a natural rock amphitheater, where Boulder's early morning Easter service is annually observed.

Our ten year old daughter, Lynne, was much impressed by the tale her cousin, Don, spun for her of one of the animals, the "photo-nus," native to Flagstaff. Among the peculiarities of this animal, says Don, is that it crawls on its stomach, has six shoe-shod legs on its back, and is invisible to the naked eye, except on the first of August, every year, and when it is fed chocolate ice cream. The skin of the "photo-nus" is transparent and is used for windshields and cellophane bags. "Phystaria" are obtained from the meat of the "photo-nuses."

On Monday afternoon we attended Boulder's 16th annual "Pow Wow"—a real honest-to-godness wild west rodeo, complete with Burma steer riding, bronco busting, and trick horseback riding and roping.

Tuesday we spent climbing Pike's peak, an elevation of 14,110 feet above sea level, on the 25 year old highway to its peak. We rented a car and driver for the climb, and were very glad we did, when we saw the difficulties encountered by others not so fortunate. They say only DeSotos, Packards and Cadillacs, specially conditioned for high altitude driving bear up under the continuous strain of driving this mountain. We stopped at the "soda" spring on our way to the top, and this water tasted as if it were pink.

Farther along, we saw the shining aluminum of a C-49 that crashed on the mountain side two years ago.

Speed races are held on the last half of the mountain climb every year, in early September. The racers make the summit in fifteen minutes. You yourself, to drive this highway, yourself, to appreciate this racing time.

NOISY CYCLES

This clipping is from the Tribune. If you lived on the N. W. Highway or Plum Grove ave., in Palatine you would understand what it means.

Mr. Annoyed.

"Chicago, June 30 — Please can't someone do something about people owning motorcycles? They make so much noise that I can't understand why they don't make them quiet their motors down. Cars use mufflers; so why not make motorcycles use them, too?"

"At night I can't go to sleep because one of these hoodlums must ride up and down the street. Where are our police officers who are supposed to keep noise down to a minimum, especially at night?"

One of our little extra sight-seeing pleasures on the climb was a cow grazing on the rock terrain, way above the timber line. We wondered how the cow would fare when one of the mountain lions caught up with her.

We climbed both of the towers on the mountain top, and were greatly impressed by the magnificent views to be had on all sides. Another unusual spectacle (for us) was the sight of the tourists alighting from the cog railroad for their view of the peak. This railroad has been in operation since 1898.

On Wednesday we toured the very modern newspaper plant of the Boulder "Daily Camera," where nephew Don is sports editor. Incidentally, the editor of the "Camera" is also a Mr. Paddock.

We spent Friday in the abandoned mining country in the Roosevelt National Forest about Ward, enjoying the beauties of the mountain country, and getting some fishing information about the nearby lakes of Red Rocks and Brainerd.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Alex Bell

GOOD NEIGHBORS

City of Good Neighbors????? Then why aren't they more neighborly and extend the courtesy of letting others park in the station parking lot, too.

We find upon arriving at the station, not one morning out of five, but EVERY morning that the "parking hogs" will park their one car in a spot where actually two cars could park, if they would only have the courtesy to move over—in many cases only a matter of inches.

How about it—Good Neighbors—let's give the other fellows a chance, too.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

Dear Jane:
Pardon the nautical jargon this morning, but, like most people with only a smattering of newly acquired knowledge on the art of sailing, I am eager to tell you about last Saturday's sail on Lake Michigan.

As I mentioned in last week's letter, we were guests of our lifelong friends, Edith and Ralph, aboard their sailboat, "The Thunderhead."

It is an experience George and Edward will never forget for many reasons. In George's case, he will remember because Ralph allowed him to guide the tiller as we left the harbor, and again later on when we were under sail. This was a thrill for a fourteen year old who was sailing for the first time.

Edward remarked when he saw the boat lying at anchor in the harbor, that he had expected a smaller craft, and so, was pleasantly surprised when he went below deck and saw the bunks in the fore peak and the other two in the main cabin.

Our host and hostess were understanding of a young boy's curiosity, and encouraged our sons to look at everything. And did they!

The Thunderhead is a sea class 36 foot, single masted sailboat with a cyclinder auxiliary motor. I has a 10 foot 6 inch beam, thus providing an unusual roomy cockpit for a sailboat. The mast is 56 feet. The keel weight is 13,095 pounds of lead, making it one of the safest sailing boats on Lake Michigan. The boat is entirely lined with solid mahogany, varnished. The deck and cockpit and galley are floored with teakwood and unfinished, because, Edith tells me, "it must be allowed to breathe."

I learned, among other things on sailing rules, that sailboats have the right of way when their sails are up, but this privilege is relinquished immediately upon starting their auxiliary motors.

We left the Jackson Park Harbor, (which they tell me is really considered one of the most beautiful in the world), under engine power, but it didn't seem any time before the sails were up and we were really under way. We passed quite close to the cut off a noticeable supply of wind. These buildings, with their many smoke stacks, make an arresting pattern jutting up from the waters edge across the sky.

We sailed up to the Railroad Fair grounds and moored directly in front of the Cypress-Gardens Water Ski show. We were there for the first act and remained to eat our lunch while the show lasted. This is a remarkable show of skill, and the boys were duly impressed. They were able to see the performance in luxurious comfort without having to pay for tickets! The skill with which these performers from the famous Cypress Gardens in Florida go through the various acts on water skis, is truly sensational.

After lunch and the show, we left on engine power to watch a race of sailboats, three of the entrants being harbor mates of Ralph and Edith. Time then was beginning to get short for us, so we ran up the sails before the race was over, and never did get to know the outcome.

As we sailed south we went directly into the wind, and yet, the Thunderhead fairly zipped along. There was just enough heeling to give us landlubbers a good thrill. We took a few splashes of water in the port holes on the port side, and the clothes and pillows in the cabin slid to the floor.

They told us this was really mild to what happens when they are racing.

When they are entered in the big races, such as the Mackinac and the Saugatuck, they put up all the sails, and I guess the heeling gets very exciting. Well, I was satisfied with our 25 degree angle! But, at no time was I really frightened, for I had complete confidence in our skipper and his boat.

The boys hated to leave the harbor when it came time to say our thanks and goodbyes. They knew that our host and hostess were to stay aboard for the night, and George and Edward would have loved sleeping in those little bunks. But Edith assured them that they had proved exemplary first-time sailors and perhaps they could go on a cruise with them sometime as crew members. This thought cheered them considerably, and now, I'm afraid, we'll be plagued every day with requests to go to Jackson Park Harbor.

After thinking it over, I've come to the conclusion that it takes a lot more real seamanship to operate a sailboat of this class, or any sailboat, for that matter, than it does to run those motor boats that go a heck of a lot faster!

With love, Mary.

Gas fumes explode, kill Des Plainesite

Des Plaines firemen and police were summoned to 485 Des Plaines avenue, where an explosion of gasoline fumes had resulted in a burning inferno, that cost the life of Mrs. Ione Ruchalski, age 33, who resided in a small cottage at the rear of this property with her husband, Adolph, and two children.

Witnesses interviewed at the scene of the tragedy pieced together the following story. The Ruchalskis had been working on their automobile doing some engine repairing over a pit in the garage just in front of their home at this same address.

Mrs. Mike Caprio, 485 Des Plaines, reported to police she had informed the Ruchalskis that gasoline had been dripping from the carburetor of their auto into the pit under the car. They flushed down the pit with water to remove the gasoline and then Mrs. Ruchalski went into the pit to plug in a pump pump so that the water accumulated there might be removed.

The spark from the electrical contact ignited the fumes, according to the police report.

Dr. Ward's Notebook

Relax, brother, and spare that ulcer!

I started my vacation full of enthusiasm and ready to surprise our publisher by turning in a column each week. Indeed, I managed to do a little business. But by the end of the first week I was so completely relaxed and so lazy I hardly had enough energy to pick up the pen. Anyone who has a good vacation this summer will appreciate my attitude — I just didn't feel like getting dressed or undressed, swimming, hiking, horseback riding or any of the other things that I had so eagerly planned.

It's a funny thing too. One of the hardest jobs I have had in the practice of medicine is convincing people (particularly men) that they should take time off from their work. Some fellows take a few days to putter around the house doing odd jobs and call it a vacation. No wonder they have ulcers.

It always seems to be the men that I have trouble with. You never hear of a woman who isn't interested in getting away from the dishes, house cleaning and children for a few days of relaxation. Actually, I should say two weeks, because a few days is not enough. It takes almost a complete week before you begin to relax. So you should have at least one more to enjoy yourself.

Some men go at their work as if it were an obsession. "My work is my relaxation," they try to convince me. That's a lot of rubbish.

I think that I enjoy my work as much as any man. You have to enjoy medicine in order to work 70 or 80 hours every week. But the average person needs a respite from his work no matter how much he enjoys it or how well he is able to relax at it. We all go stale eventually. I have seen some men who brag that they have not had a vacation since the war. These are the biggest fools I have occasion to run into. They are headed for a physical and mental breakdown if they don't take it easy pretty soon.

The annual vacation should include a complete change of scenery. If you can't afford expensive traveling, borrow some camping equipment and head for one of our national parks. You'll find it is cheaper to camp than staying home.

Send the children to a relative or make an agreement with a friend to take their children in exchange for yours when they go on a vacation. By all means get away from the kids for a while. They need a vacation from you just as much as you need one from them. You will never appreciate your family so much as the day you return from your vacation. And you will find that you get along better than you have for months after you have had a brief separation.

It was a wise man who told us that you can do 12 months work in 11, but you can't do it in 12. Every machine known to modern science requires a rest period. The human body is no exception.

If you have not had a vacation yet this year, it is time to get started. If you work for someone who doesn't believe in

Man's Search For Self Shown In Morley Novel

Vacation is a time for long stretches of reading. I carefully sift titles I've been planning to read and come up with a varied group. Last month when we headed for Colorado, at the top of the pile was Christopher Morley's "The Man Who Made Friends With Himself."

I read it aloud as we sped over the barren miles. It is an excellent book for reading aloud and interruptedly because of its nearly plotless series of memories and thoughts.

The character of the man, Richard Tolman, is revealed as he writes these notes in the first person. Few startling events happen, but to Tolman the uneventful day assumes meaning as he surrounds it with overtones, quotations and witty comments.

The characters are few. Tolman is a literary agent living as a commuter in a New York suburban community. Wendling Ways, with his colored housekeeper, Mealie. His partner Zoe Else, also a psychiatrist, is his thought companion and mistress. There are neighbors on the scene and a "well-shevelled" secretary. Tolman tries, unsuccessfully fully for a long time, to meet a person identified as That Man. Later when they meet, Tolman finds that he is always doing or saying the things he himself would most like to do or say.

He uses quotations abundantly, reflecting Christopher Morley when he says, "I haven't any patience with literature unless people can have fun with it, among themselves." Tolman has a lot of fun with words: "They were innocent as a couple of statistics." "I was a fugitive from chain reactions." "Penn Station, where the torque of hurry is golden rope round everyone's throat." He sprinkles verse throughout which he appropriately calls poetry — the typewriter P and 1/2 are side by side and frequently confused. He uses extra question marks to emphasize thoughts not definitely true: "Height and Depth are the same, turned inside out?"

There were obtuse parts, but on the whole, in presenting a character from the inside out, Christopher Morley has done a fascinating job. In presenting his theme of Man's search for himself, a great deal of searching is done. But is anything really found? Perhaps for a title The Man Who Tried To Make Friends With Himself would be better?

Des Plaines mayor
says no to selling
water outside limits

If the proposed water contract between Des Plaines and residents of the Hawthorne Lane region is okayed by the city and signed it probably will contain several clauses suggested by Mayor Kenneth G. Meyer. Though he still is opposed to allowing any further water hook-ups for residents living outside the corporate limits, the mayor said he has drawn up the changes to better protect the city in the event the council passes the contract. Some of the proposals are: The contract would be between the city and a non-profit corporation. But each individual water user in the area should be made a party to the contract. If and when this area should become a part of the city the water mains would become city property.

automatic fire calls

Containing that the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. is required under law to provide telephone service for fire calls through a central exchange, and not require expensive changes when the dial system is installed, a communication to this effect was sent the company by the Libertyville Village board.

At Friday night's meeting of the Libertyville Village board President John Jaeger told of a conference in which the dial system operations were discussed. Willis A. Overholser, Libertyville Village attorney, was instructed to send the following letter to the phone company, in part:

"It appears that your Company, in changing over to the dial system of handling telephone calls in the Libertyville exchange, does not contemplate taking care of fire and other emergency calls as you are now doing and have done in the past. We regret this and feel some arrangement to this effect should be made."

Bits o' business

Unlike the mother country, where Socialism has pretty well snuffed the mining industries, Canada is rapidly developing its sources of underground wealth. An oil boom that has even Texas envious is boiling in western Canada. In eastern Canada notable gains are being made in the output of asbestos, gold, silver and clay products, says the Quebec Department of Mines. In western U. S., sugar beet processors are getting ready to spend $3 million in an effort to convince housewives that their product is every bit as good as cane sugar. Wholesale food prices are on the rise again. The first international trade fair ever to be held in this country is slated for 1950. Just an old European custom, these "business men's fairs" are designed primarily to increase international trade.

Fifth of farm accidents are from falling

In observing National Farm Safety Week, July 24-30, Illinois Agricultural Association Safety Director John A. Lake suggested that farmers spend some time next week looking for hazards which might cause falls.

This is particularly important, Lake said, because falls cause about 20 per cent of all accidents on Illinois farms. Statistics on one recent year show that of 1,500 accidents on Illinois farms, 325 were the result of falls.

"Let's do something about agriculture's reputation as the most hazardous occupation," Lake said, "by starting with falls. We can eliminate some accidents by eliminating the causes. Pick up those old pieces of equipment lying around where someone might trip. Fix the old ladders and see that they are placed right before using."

LAKE AGAIN advised farmers to keep their children off tractors, animals, and wagons. In 1947, about 75 children were injured in falls of which 11 resulted in death. Hay loaders and horses accounted for half of the deaths.

Other sources of falling accidents were tractors, moving machinery, barn lofts, barn roofs, hay mowers, and farm homes.

Aug. 19 named Farmers' Day at state fair

August 19 has been designated Farmers' Day at the Illinois State Fair which will open in Springfield August 12 and close August 21.

On Farmers' Day, the board of directors and officers of the Illinois Agricultural Association, the State Farm Bureau organization, will be on hand at the Farm Bureau tent to welcome and talk with Farm Bureau people.

As in previous years the Illinois Agricultural Association will set up the Farm Bureau tent during the fair for the con-

City milk ordinances

Illinois cities and villages have authority to pass and enforce ordinances for the protection of the health and safety of their residents. Among the things subject to their control are all items of food offered for sale within the municipality.

Of all the foods offered for sale milk is subject to the most regulations and control. The larger cities in the state and many of the smaller ones have adopted comprehensive ordinances prescribing standards which must be met in the production, handling and distribution of milk. Most of these ordinances prescribe the sanitary conditions to be met on the farm, the standards to be met by the milk itself—bacterial count, for example—and standards to be met in processing or manufacturing and bottling. Pasteurization, physical examinations for plant employees are examples of requirements which a city may make.

To carry out their ordinances, municipalities may license and inspect. However, there is a law in Illinois which permits farmers to sell their own produce—including milk—without a peddler's license. The courts have held that this does not excuse a farmer from complying with an ordinance which prescribes the conditions under which a product may be sold. There is some question, however, as to the right of a city to inspect farms and enforce compliance with standards. In a recent case the Illinois Supreme Court said:

"The legislature has not delegated power to municipal corporations to pass a regulatory and license ordinance which assumes to regulate dairy farms or milk bottling plants outside their corporate limits."

"It does not follow that because the city has the right to regulate the sale of and inspect milk sold within its corporate limits it is empowered to license milk producing farms and milk plants in Peoria and elsewhere."

"Statutory authority for a municipality to require a dairy farm or milk plant located more than one-half mile beyond its limits to obtain a license or permit and pay an inspection fee is lacking."

Cities and villages are not the only public bodies in Illinois capable of making and enforcing regulations on health—including milk and other food produced. Provision is made for the organization, in one or two or more adjoining counties, of a department of public health, which may recommend to the county board the adoption of "such ordinances and of such rules and regulations as may be deemed necessary or desirable for the promotion and protection of health and control of disease." Also, the law provides that the supervisor, assessor and town clerk shall constitute a board of health in Illinois towns.

Unquestionably Illinois counties and townships have more authority, outside city limits, with regard to public health problems, than they ordinarily exercise.

Still another local agency with extensive power to license and regulate—within its legal limits—is the public health district. These may be organized to include variable political areas, both rural and urban, and are authorized, when organized in an urban area, to take over from the city the administration of milk ordinances.

In Illinois counties under the commission form of government, the Board of County Commissioners by law constitutes a board of health. The law provides that among other things such boards shall have the power to "do all acts, make all regulations which may be necessary or expedient for the suppression of disease." This would seem to give such a board authority to license and inspect milk plants and producers within the county. The county board in counties under township organization is not clothed with this same statutory authority.

Summer brings milk production problems here

Summer, with its heat and humidity, brings up new problems for milk producers.

W. O. Nelson, dairy bacteriologist, Illinois College of Agriculture, says that these conditions are excellent for growing corn. But the warm summer nights are also good for growing bacteria.

Bacteria in milk affect its flavor, so it is very important to keep that count down. Excessive numbers of bacteria cause a sour flavor as well as the malty flavor that sometimes appears.

Another taste is sunshine flavor, which can appear in 15 minutes or so when pasteurized milk is exposed to summer sunshine. Consumers, as well as producers, should not allow milk to be exposed to sunshine.

IN HANDLING milk, one big problem that many of you have in the summertime is that your main farm enterprise is grain production and not milk production. If the oats are ready to cut, they are cut no matter what time the milking is done or the milking machine washed. On such farms it is difficult to comply with the all sanitary regulations of milk production.

Keeping utensils clean and cooling milk promptly to 50 degrees or below are two problems which always exist but which are greatest in the summer. Any producer can market Grade A milk if he sterilizes his utensils and cools his milk, whether he milks by hand or machine.

Sugar beet crop near 7-year high

Saginaw—1949 will be the best sugar beet year except one since 1942, according to Jack D. Brock, Farmers & Manufacturers Beet Sugar Ass'n. The single exception is 1946. A big boost is assured in both acreage and tonnage this year over last, Brock declares.

Acreage for four states in the Eastern area is 154% of 1948, reveals Brock. Michigan is 147% of 1948, Ohio 188%, Illinois 124% and Indiana's a whopping 225%.

Ohio's acreage is very close to the seven-year high of 26,156 acres set in 1946.

Yield forecasts conservatively place production in Michigan at 650,000 tons, or 191,000 more than last year, he says. Ohio's production may be up to 245,000 tons, or 83,000 more than last year.

Michigan's blocked-and-thinned acreage as of July 15 is 76,426 compared to 52,107 acres harvested last year; Ohio's 24,509 compared to 13,033; Illinois' 2,750 compared to 2,218; and Indiana's 802 compared to 356 last year.

Blocking and thinning now is virtually complete. The bulk of the acreage was finished early compared to other years, and yield prospects on that portion of the crop are excellent, Brock reports.

where possible. And train your dog. A well-trained dog will get your cows to the barn without running them.

Announce milk prices to farmers

Class prices for milk delivered during July, 1949 for the Chicago milk marketing area were announced by A. W. Colebank, Administrator of Federal Order 41. The prices are $3.546 per hundred weight (7.2c per quart) for Class I, $3.246 per hundred weight for Class II and $2.965 for Class III and $2.965 for Class IV milk.

The "Basic Formula" used in computing the prices of Class I milk and Class II milk for June was the Butter-Powder-Formula of $2.846 as determined for the preceding month, to which premiums of 70 cents and 40 cents are added to establish the Class I and Class II prices, respectively.

The July 1949 Class I and Class II prices were also announced, and are $3.865 and $3.465, respectively; the "Basic Formula Price" used was the Butter-Powder-Price for July of $2.965.

Udder injuries in dairy cows help cause mastitis

A University of Illinois veterinarian says it's a common sport to send the dog after cows that don't want to go to the barn for milking. But it's also a costly sport when it leads to mastitis.

Dr. M. E. Mansfield of the College of Veterinary Medicine states that a cow's udder is easily injured. Running a cow often causes bruises which help to give mastitis germs a good start.

Most injuries of cows' teats and udders can be prevented, the veterinarian says. Some other causes of injuries are insufficient bedding, trash piles in the barnyard or pasture, rough milking, leaving the milker on too long, and short, crowded stalls.

If you're a dairyman, you can help to prevent mastitis by removing the causes of injuries

Good Illinois peach crop in prospect

It looks as if there will be a high-quality peach crop this year in southern Illinois growing areas.

Even better, the prospect now is for a good market to hold steady during the harvest.

V. W. Kelley and R. L. McMunn, horticulturists at the Illinois College of Agriculture, say that estimated light pickings in South Carolina this summer will mean a continuing demand for Illinois Elberta peaches when they are ready for market early in August.

Estimates now point to a peach crop of more than two million bushels in Illinois this year compared with 1,428,000 bushels last year. Most of this estimated increase is due to better quality of fruit rather than to increased acreages.

CONSUMERS are demanding better peaches on the market. Kelley and McMunn say, "Housewives will pay premium prices to get firm-ripe peaches. The horticulturists urge growers to leave their peaches on the trees three or four days longer until they are more nearly mature than is customarily the case."

Under normal growing conditions in a 40-acre orchard the crop will increase by one carload for every additional day the peaches are left on the trees. No grower can afford to overlook this volume increase in choosing his harvest dates.

Closer supervision of pickers and more careful handling of the fruit from the tree to the refrigerator car will insure less damage and higher quality in the ripening peaches.

Early Train Time

Early American railroads ran their trains only in daytime due to the risks from fallen trees, rock slides, cattle, buffalo herds, Indians, train robbers and other hazards.

Farm tractor dangerous vehicle on highway

Watch out when you drive your tractor on the highway. That's the time to be most careful in handling your machine.

Remember that your farm tractor on the highway is dangerous because its normal 5-15 mph. speed is just about the same as standing still in fast auto traffic.

This fact is made clear in a recent study of rural motor vehicle traffic accidents in Minnesota involving farm tractors compared with those involving other vehicles during 1948.

Collision with other vehicles accounted for 92 per cent of the farm tractor accidents. That's more than 9 out of every 10! Compare that with 68 per cent of the other motor vehicles in rural traffic accidents resulting from collisions with other motor vehicles.

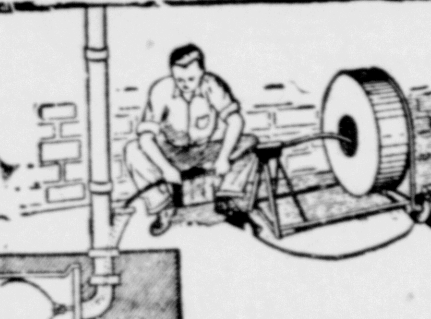

The dangerous thing about it is that farm tractor accidents cause a much higher proportion of deaths and injuries than other motor vehicles because you have less protection. Eight per cent of the farm tractor accidents were fatal compared with only 3 per cent for other vehicles. Furthermore, 47 per cent of the farm tractor accidents involved nonfatal injuries compared with 38 per cent for other vehicles.

Another thing, rear-end collision accounted for 36 per cent of the tractor accidents compared with only 8 per cent for other vehicles. So keep a sharp look-out behind.

Twenty-one per cent of tractor accidents occurred at night compared with 40 per cent for other vehicles. However, one-third of the tractors involved lacked adequate lights compared with only 1 per cent of all other vehicles.

Modern Etiquette

Q. If the names of two or more hostesses appear on an invitation, to whom should acceptance or regret be addressed?

A. Address the envelope to the one at whose home the party is to take place. Or, to all the names exactly as in the invitation if it is to be at a club or hotel.

Q. Should the word "dear" be capitalized in the salutation of a letter, as, "My Dear Mrs. Jones?"

A. No; it should be written, "My dear Mrs. Jones."

Q. When giving a tip, is it necessary to say a kind word of appreciation to a considerate servant?

A. It is not necessary, but it is never out of place to express appreciation to anyone.

Q. What is the proper way to announce a wedding engagement?

A. By means of an engagement party, by sending notices to the newspapers, and by sending engraved announcements to relatives and friends.

Q. When one accidentally brushes against another person, which is the better expression to use, "Pardon me," or, "I beg your pardon?"

A. "I beg your pardon."

Q. Is it proper at a large dinner or banquet to wait for everyone to be served before one begins to eat?

A. No; you may begin eating as soon as served.

Q. Is it permissible to close a letter with one word such as, "Sincerely," "Cordially," "Respectfully?"

A. No. When an adverb ending in ly is used, the possessive pronoun yours should be added.

Q. If one is both slightly acquainted with a bride and bridegroom, and an invitation is received to their wedding, is it necessary to send these circumstances, it is entirely optional.

Q. Should the fingers be used when taking lump sugar from the bowl?

A. No; the hostess should always provide sugar tongs for this purpose.

Q. May a bride carry a bouquet even if she isn't dressed in white?

A. Unless she is attired in a going-away costume or tailored suit, the bride may carry a bouquet. A corsage is more suitable if she is wearing a suit or going-away dress.

Suggest more emphasis on diet in school

President Charles B. Shuman of the Illinois Agricultural Association said today that not enough emphasis is placed in Illinois schools on the importance of an adequate diet for our children.

Shuman suggested that the importance of good nutrition be set forth in a program of study not only in elementary schools but also in our high schools and colleges and with the active assistance of fathers and mothers.

More adequate facilities for the new department of home economics at the University of Illinois would help considerably Shuman said.

"Illinois farmers," Shuman continued, "can help this program for a better understanding of an adequate diet by encouraging their wives and daughters to join in the activities of the local home bureau."

Shuman pointed out that while farm surpluses are beginning to pile up, hundreds of thousands of our people are undernourished.

Emphasizing the importance of an adequate diet for all our people, president Shuman quoted an Eastern farm leader who said that if everyone consumed an adequate diet, including the minimum requirements of animal product foods, it would not be possible to produce a surplus of farm products in the United States.

Gold Star day

Sunday, August 14, will be the day to remember the mothers of our war dead. This day has been officially proclaimed as Gold Star Mothers' day by Governor Stevenson, a day to be made brighter by sending flowers to these mothers, a card to greet them or a visit to those who are ill or shut in.

Wetwood ill shows trees, too, suffer from high pressure

Some trees suffer from "high pressure," and the result is slime flux, or wetwood. Although this bacterial infection attacks many common trees, including sycamores, oaks, hackberry and walnut, it is most commonly found in the elm family.

M. W. Staples, field supervisor of the Davey Tree Expert Co., reports research shows pressures of from five to 50 pounds per square inch in wetwood victims, as opposed to the normal pressure of one pound per square inch. The affliction seems to be on the increase he reports. In Ohio alone, it is believed some five percent of all elms are affected.

Wet spots appear on trees following fermentation that results in excess production of gases. Bottled up gases produce the high pressures. Sap accumulates in affected wood and produces a brown, water-soaked condition in trunks or branches, or both.

Fortunately, tree surgeons can control — although they can't cure — the trouble. This is handled by installation of drain tubes to release sap and gases and by pruning and feeding to restore vitality. The disease still will exist, but its effect is minimized.

To spray Woodstock in polio fight

In an effort to cut down the spread of polio in the city the Woodstock city council Friday approved a plan to spray the entire city from the air with DDT. This will be done the first part of the week.

Dr. W. H. DeWolf, chairman of the council's health committee, asked permission of the council to proceed with such a program. The city will be dusted off similar to the manner in which farms have been sprayed from the air to combat the corn borer menace.

Presenting the Younger Generation

Doing a deliberate turn-about-face, our presentation this week jumps from vacations to the romance department.

Teddy Waldbillig, 2½ (left) is baby of his family and the only boy. "I'm ready to quit now," Mrs. Waldbillig stated. "I've got my boy."

Brown haired, brown eyed Teddy has three sisters, the eldest of whom is named "Alana" (meaning "my darling" in Irish.) Alana, 9, is a fifth grade student, Andrea, 7, will enter 2nd grade in September and 6 year old Lynn will be among new students discovering mysteries of 1st grade at St. James school.

"School will soon begin—hoo-ray!" Mrs. Waldbillig said. Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Waldbillig, 611 Euclid, Arlington Heights, are parents of Teddy and the girls.

Teddy's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Irma Prindell, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is temporarily visiting the Waldbillig family and agrees her grandchildren make the house seem like a junior madhouse at times.

A dainty girl who is small for her age, Roberta Anne Gorder, 20 months, (second from left) is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gorder, 1006 Harvard, Arlington Heights.

If friends of the Gorder family wonder whether they have moved, the answer is "No." However their address has been changed.

After living in the same house for 2½ years, it was found the village retained one house number for the Gorder residence while the contractor had given the family another at the time the house was built.

"We enjoy Arlington Heights so much," Mrs. Gorder told our reporter. "Roberta was born after we moved here and we sort of feel she is our good luck piece and that Arlington Heights has done something for us."

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gorder, 10 Kenilworth, Mt. Prospect, are paternal grandparents of definitely blonde, blue eyed Roberta. The Herb Gorders, Arlington Heights, the Arthur Weis, Prospect Heights, and the Henry Gorders, Prospect Heights are Roberta's aunts and uncles who live in this vicinity.

A young lady who lives "the life of Riley" and spends her summers in Arlington Heights and her winters in New Orleans, Love Diane Calvin, 3, (third from left) will be traveling south again the end of August so her sister and brother may enter school in New Orleans at the beginning of the semester. Diane's father is with the race track and travels with them.

Named after her grandmother, Love Dearie, Love Diane is seldom called by other than her second name. She has brown hair and blue eyes.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Calvin, 126 Park Lane, Diane has a sister, Judy, 7, and a brother, Chucky, 6.

Mr. Edward Dearie, 126 Park Lane, Arlington Heights is maternal grandfather.

Housing Shortage

One can't blame Freddie Wickenkamp III, 6, (right) too much for being willing to give his brand new sister, Rosemary, 5 weeks old, away.

Freddie needs sympathetic understanding. In addition to himself and young sister, two cousins live in the same flat with the Wickenkamp family plus Freddie's grandparents.

Six cousins live upstairs, adding up to 10 children who occupy the same house, or 8 cousins to play with. That's a lot of children in any language.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wickenkamp, jr., 315 N. State rd., Arlington Heights, Freddie has brown hair and brown eyes. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wickenkamp, jr., are the paternal grandparents with whom Freddie lives. Mrs. E. Neuman, 19 W. Campbell is maternal grandmother.

Soap box derby winner to Akron

Thomas G. Cain, the 14-year-old lad from Marengo, is a quiet, almost-shy boy who got the idea July 1 to build a racer for the 1949 All-American Soap Box Derby.

Because of the idea, which his father, Stanley, Cain, first suggested, the slender, sandy-haired young man is going to Akron for four days of fun and thrills seldom experienced by persons so youthful.

Cain will represent McHenry county in the national Derby at Akron on Aug. 14 and is being sent as the Woodstock champion where he will compete against winners from 155 communities all over the nation.

Whether he wins a race or not, Tom will receive many prizes, including a wrist watch, a stay at Derbytown, and a host of other fine things.

nium (to June 30, 1951), it would be able to provide each month $1,726,941 to supplement General Relief funds and $2,311,127 for Aid to Dependent Children allowances. Obviously it cannot continue to allocate these funds as it did during July and August."

TAX FACTS

By George E. Mahlin, Executive Secretary
Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois

The announced reduction of the Illinois Public Aid Commission in its grants for General Relief and Aid to Dependent Children has resulted in a future, particularly in Chicago. The 99 million dollars appropriated by the last General Assembly for these purposes is your money. What are the facts? In a letter to the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, James E. Foster, Chief of Informational Service of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, gives the reasons for the IPAC's decision.

"The Illinois Public Aid Commission is reducing the amount it provides to local relief administrators by 10 per cent, and its Aid to Dependent Children allowances by 5 per cent, because at the present cost of these programs the funds available for them will be exhausted before the end of the two year period for which they were appropriated.

"For the two year period ending June 30, 1951, the Illinois General Assembly appropriated $43,000,000 to supplement locally raised general relief funds and $56,000,000 to the Aid to Dependent Children program. These amounts represent an increase of $11,000,000 over the General Relief appropriation and $6,500,000 over the Aid to Dependent Children appropriation for the previous two year period.

"The Commission made allocation for General Relief of $2,146,113 in July and $2,089,124 in August and allocations of $2,618,440 and $2,536,771 respectively for July and August for Aid to Dependent Children. If the Commission were to take the balance of its appropriations for General Relief and Aid to Dependent Children and pro-rate them equally over the remaining 22 months of the present biennium (Continued to Col. 6)
